County's Cemeteries Rich in Nation's History

FINAL RESTING PLACES

The wealthy, brave and slightly daft all share the soil in Colma. Shown are the graves of Emperor Norton, Adm. Chester Nimitz and William Randolph Hearst.

By FRANK LaPIERRE

They are all here in San Mateo County.

The greatest gunfighter that ever lived. America's only Emperor. A sugar king, money mogul, newspaper tycoon, U.S. Senator and a military hero.

Many of the world's once most influential and wealthiest people now rest beside "just plain citizens" in the county's 31 cemeteries.

On a plain stone marker at the Hills of Eternity Cemetery in Colma is a name that once sent shivers of fear through people.

Wyatt Earp, called "The greatest gunfighter that ever lived" by western historian Stewart Holbrook, is buried beside his wife, Josephine.

The gunfighter met and married Josephine Sarah Marcus after his return to San Francisco from the Alaskan gold rush. He spent several years in the Klondike in the late 1800s as a saloon owner.

Earp died in 1929 at the age of 81. Despite his many gunfights, there wasn't a bullet scar on his body.

Perhaps the most famous gun battle Earp took part in was the incident at the OK Corral, in which he and his three brothers, along with "Doc" Holliday, wiped out the notorious Clanton Gang in a bloody duel to the death.

Earp became prominent as the U.S. Marshal who brought peace to Dodge City.

He next went to Cheyenne, Wyo. where he teamed with another famous lawman — "Bat" Masterson — to tame that wild city.

In Tombstone, Wyatt met the deadly "Doc" Holliday and, together with his brothers — Virgil, Morgan and Warren, stopped a rash of lynchings that had plagued the town before his arrival.

This crackdown eventually led to the OK Corral battle.

He later tried his hand at saloonkeeping, prospecting and even real estate selling in San Diego.

After his marriage to Josephine, the two prospected for gold in the Mojave Desert and struck it rich in copper and gold.

Josephine, daughter of a pioneer merchant, died in 1944.

No one ever captured the imagination of San Franciscans quite like Joshua Abraham Norton — Norton I, Emperor of the United States and Protector of Mexico.

He died in 1880 at the age of 61 and is buried in Woodlawn Cemetery in Colma.

Clinton T. Miller, curator of the San Mateo County Historical Association museum at the College of San Mateo Campus, described Norton in a recent brochure on famous persons interred in the county.

"He was born in London and came to California in 1849. He brought with him $40,000 which he soon increased to $250,000. In 1855 he lost this fortune by speculating in the rice market.

"Norton disappeared until 1859, when he returned to San Francisco and proclaimed himself Emperor of the United States and Protector of Mexico. The Emperor's numerous proclamations provided his 'subjects' with numerous chuckles.

"One such proclamation seemed particularly peculiar — even for him. In 1869 he ordered his loyal subjects to construct a suspension bridge from Oakland to Yerba Buena Island and then to San Francisco — the span ending in the west about where the Bay Bridge is located today.

"When the Emperor died in 1880, he was given a bang-up funeral befitting the monarch he proclaimed him-

Parking Fine Increase Causes Protest

By GEORGE GOLDING

An attempt by Municipal Court judges to equalize overtime parking ticket bail fees in San Mateo County is raising tempers of city officials because of citizen complaints.

In some areas, parking ticket bails (or fines) have gone up 150 per cent, from $2 to $5.

The changes in all overtime parking bail fees were made by the judges to end "an awful mess of differing fees for different types of overtime parking violations," according to Central Judicial District Court Judge Alan Haverty.

Judge Haverty said people might have been paying $2 for overtime parking in Burlingame, but $3 or $4 or even $5 in other cities.

In addition, there were different fees for different types of parking meter violations, overnight, parking lot, on-street and others.

"We made it uniform, that's all," said Judge Haverty.

Despite the intent, angry citizens have been calling police departments and city halls with angry complaints.

Although the cities had been more or less aware during past months that increases were due, their leaders were not prepared for the public reaction.

"Parking meter fines have gone up from $2 to $5," said Burlingame Mayor Irving Amstrup, "and we're getting a lot of unhappy calls to the police and the city.

"This is not a city thing. The courts decide this particular type of thing."

Burlingame Police Lt. Thomas Chase said his department was notified "by letter last Wednesday, saying that effective immediately it would be $5 instead of $2."

Since then, he admits, the police department has received a number of angry calls.

"They think the city arbitrarily sets the bail," Lt. Chase said, "but we had nothing to do with it."

One source of misunderstanding, suggested by some police, is the parking fine system itself. Legally, parking ticket fees are bailments, posted to insure appearance of the alleged offender in court. Actually, neither the courts nor the payees expect appearance to be made. Payees expect to "forfeit bail," from the moment they post it. Courts accept the "forfeited bail" as payment of

Emergency Help Plan Criticized

The City Council in Daly City is less than enthused with a proposed San Mateo County Emergency Medical Services plan which would centralize certain emergency phone numbers and services.

"What's so great about centralizing (these services)?" Councilman Paul Hupf asked City Manager David Rowe at a study session last week.

Rowe explained the county's plan had its good and bad points, and he and his staff were not completely "sold" on it.

The plan, in part, calls for installation of a single emergency number (911) and establishment of five medical response zones throughout the county, attended by 11 ambulances and paramedics.

But the idea of zoning was not well received by the councilmen.

Hupf, voicing vigorous opposition to the plan, said Daly City's fire and police departments had always been above par and were continually praised by the residents.

If the county is broken up into "response zones" it might affect response time during emergencies, Hupf said.

The city staff's objections to the plan, drafted by the Emergency Medical Care Committee of the county's Comprehensive Health Planning Council, were two-fold:

- Changing of emergency telephone numbers to countywide 911 and dispatch of all ambulance responses from a county control point.
- Countywide paramedic services be combined with ambulance services. That is, if paramedics are assigned to a city, they should also transport patients in addition to attending to their medical needs at an emergency.

Rowe said these "and other serious questions concerning the plan may not be answered within the next two years."

The Board of Supervisors is scheduled to review the plan for the second time on Nov. 4.

At the initial hearing on the matter, held Sept. 10, several county officials asked for more time to come up with alternatives to the plan.

If the Board of Supervisors adopts the plan, it could "lock in" cities to the medical plan.

However, there is some question concerning the legalities of the county dictating ambulance services within cities, a Daly City City Hall spokesman said.

Mayors Criticize Fine Boost Plan

The San Mateo County Council of Mayors adopted a resolution Friday criticizing a move by Municipal Court judges to equalize overtime parking ticket bail fees in San Mateo County.

During a meeting in Foster City the mayors voted unanimously to approve a resolution which:

- Requests Municipal Court judges to give city officials prior notice before such moves.
- Allows a grace period before the overtime parking ticket bail fees are summarily changed.
- Requests that the judges explain by what criteria they arrived at the changes in bail fees.

The resolution was introduced by Burlingame Mayor Irving Amstrup who complained the court action immediately increased parking meter fines from $2 to $5 in his city.

"I think the Council of Mayors should ask the judges to at least notify us of such intended changes," Amstrup said.

Central Court Judge Alan Haverty explained earlier Friday that the move was made to end "an awful mess of differing fees for different types of overtime parking violations."

Judge Haverty said people paid a $2 overtime parking ticket in Burlingame, but $3 or $4 or even $5 in other cities.

In addition to the above, Judge Haverty said there were different fees for different types of parking meter violations including overnight, parking lot, onstreet and others.

"We made it uniform, that's all," said the judge.

Fire at Apartment

A woman and three small children escaped an early morning blaze Saturday that heavily damaged their apartment and moderately damaged three other units at 369 Peoria St., Daly City.

Fire Captain John Roy said the fire, which caused an estimated $13,000 damage to the structure occupied by Debra Harris, was started by a child playing with matches.

The 7-year-old boy was identified as a nephew of Ms. Harris, Roy said.

Elivinia DeGarmo Chosen

George Washington School Principal

A Pittsburgh Unified School District bilingual-bicultural program director will assume the principalship of George Washington School in Daly City Monday.

Elivinia DeGarmo, 39, was appointed to fill the vacancy after an executive session of the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees Oct. 21.

Earl Nielsen, associate superintendent of certificated personnel, said the woman was one of five persons recommended for the position to the board from a committee of parents, teachers and administrators.

Ms. DeGarmo, a Phd. from University of California at Berkeley, has been a teacher in the Berkeley Unified School District and in the Los Angeles School District.

She also has been a research assistant for Far West Laboratories, a consultant for the Oakland Public School District on a Spanish speaking project for higher education, and a consultant for the Institute of Urban Black Studies.

She has served as a consultant for Pacific Training Association in San Francisco.

She has been in education since receiving a bachelor of arts from California State University at Long Beach in 1960.

Her doctorate dissertation was "An Exploratory Study of Mexican American Women in an Urban Community."

Her masters thesis, written at University of California in 1969, was "Mexican American Women's Perceptions of the School as an Institution, An Initial Study."

She is a member of the National Woman's Political Caucus, the California Association of Bilingual Educators and the Mexican American Political Association.

The hiring has been a controversial issue in the JESD.

The board earlier had appointed a San Mateo Elementary School District administrator to fill the job but he rejected the offer.

Then, the board had to send the appointment back to committee, readvertise and again review committee recommendations.

During that time, however, the trustees heard opinion from the minority community that Shelly Fernandez, formerly vice-principal at the school, should have been hired to fill the vacancy.

Ms. Fernandez was transferred to the Elementary School Act bilingual program at the district office.

Ms. Fernandez was not one of five persons recommended by the committee for the job either time.

Ms. DeGarmo will begin her principalship at $20,130.

Smog Meet Raps Pollution by Autos

By LIN DAY

Smoggy days that obscure the view across the Bay do everything from producing body pains to ruining athletic performances, a Peninsula business and industry conference was told Tuesday.

The conference, entitled "Transportation Options for Business and Industry," was conducted at Rickey's Hyatt House in Palo Alto. It was sponsored by the American Lung Association and the Bay Area Council.

Some of the bigger industries, including those in San Mateo County and down the Peninsula, are doing something about it, a battery of speakers explained, by encouraging car and van pools to thin down the heavy traffic on Bayshore and other freeways.

Success can mean improved employe work performance and arrival times, improved morale and communication, better air, savings on parking lots, retention of valuable employes, and other side effects, speakers said.

Sometimes, it was said, good car pool arrangements not only reduced wear on the family automobile but also eliminated the need for a second car.

The proponents of car and van pools admitted there were some "minuses" — the major one being the insurance problems involved, and for which no easy solution could be found.

Car pool enthusiasm had to be fanned by the industrial or business firms involved, speakers said, and kept alive by continuous activity or the pools tended to diminish after a time, although some retained their new "habit pattern."

Just how bad the smog problem is in the Bay Area and similar centers of mass automotive transportation was explained by Arthur M. Winer, M.D., associate research chemist and program manager for the Environmental Chamber Laboratory of the statewide Air Pollution Research Center at University of California, Riverside.

Displaying figures on air basins in California, he noted that the pollution concentration in the San Francisco Bay area basin was the second heaviest in the state, pouring, for example, 1,100 tons of hydrocarbons per day into the air and 3,500 tons of carbon monoxide.

Motor vehicles were the major source, he said.

The energy crisis may not improve things as much as might be expected, he said, because while a reduction might occur in automobile emissions, use of oil and coal to produce natural gas could replace "the Los Angeles-type of smog with a London-type of smog."

The energy crisis appears to have set back the clean air movement all the way to 1990, he said, because of relaxation of emission standards to achieve higher miles-per-gallon motor ratios.

This means, Dr. Winer said, that the emphasis should be now on reduction of vehicle-miles travelled, since "we won't get anywhere with emission reduction."

Dr. Stanley Rokaw, M.D., associate clinical professor of medicine at the University of California, Los Angeles, and at the University of Southern California, spelled out pollution effects at the all-day conference sponsored by the American Lung Association and the Bay Area Council.

Marginal cases are fatally affected by pollution, he said, with a correlation between deaths and the smog index. Investigation has shown, he added, that specific pollution substances cause specific effects. It is this study, he said, which led the establishment of the air quality standards now being set back.

Dr. Rokaw said there are both acute and chronic or long-term effects from smog.

Carbon monoxide, he said, may be sub-lethal in vascular disease. Coronary artery patients feel pain in the chest whenever carbon monoxide reaches a 50 parts-per-million rate (often exceeded in the Bay Area).

Legs of persons with vascular deficiencies produce pain at high smog concentrations, and the chance of survival of heart patients diminishes, he said. Headaches occur at a point in the pollution curve, and such things as time lapse recognition and reflex and responses diminish in healthy persons.

Ozone at 50-parts-per-million causes respiratory symptoms that persist until the next day. Athletes and swimmers, he said, show diminished output under such conditions.

To businessmen, he said, an economic factor is present — respiratory diseases are the "second most common cause of disability in the United States, as well as of absenteeism, and are a drag on the economy."

John Schipper, Ph.D., J.D. presented figures on parking lots of some major area business firms and said from one-third to one-half the cost involved could be cut by car pooling, and some or all of the money used to support the van and car pool program.

David Lakey, industrial relations representative of United Airlines, told of the spontaneous development of commuter bus traffic serving the 8,500 employes at the company's base in San Bruno.

"We have six companies and 53 buses handling 1,900 to and from work," Lakey said. The buses serve most of the Bay Area, he said.

Arts Council Grant

The largest federal grant of its kind ever given a San Mateo County art institution has been made to the San Mateo County Arts Council for a project called "County Spirit Multi-Cultural Task Force."

The $22,950 grant came from the National Endowment for the Arts in Washington, D.C. The 11-month project, planned earlier this year by arts and non-arts leaders in the county, begins Nov. 1.

There are three parts of the project, according to Bill Nemoyten, arts council executive director.

The first is a pilot program involving a multi-ethnic team of visual and performing artists to be a "resource stimulant" in target area communities of Daly City, East Palo Alto.

County HRC to Probe Homosexual Bias

Expansion of the jurisdiction of the County Human Relations Commission to include investigation of complaints of discrimination on the basis of homosexuality was authorized Tuesday by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

San Mateo County joins San Francisco and Santa Clara as the only other counties in the state with similar policies.

The action was recommended by the Human Relations Commission, which last March voted 8 to 4 to approve a resolution to ban discrimination based on sexual preference or sexual orientation.

The vote by the Board of Supervisors was 4 to 0. Supervisor Jean Fassler was absent on vacation.

Supporting the move was Boyce R. Hinman, of San Mateo, a member of the steering committee of the Peninsula Group of Concern. He said the organization has both homosexual and straight members.

Hinman estimated that on the basis of a finding that four per cent of the nation's population is homosexual, there are 25,000 persons in San Mateo County's homosexual population.

They will be "helped, supported and gladdened" by the board's action, Hinman stated.

Hinman said that discrimination on the basis of homosexuality does exist in the county and that it is costly in terms of lost skills because the homosexual can't work, can't support himself and may have to go on welfare or must debase himself to deny a sexual orientation in which he believes.

Hinman reported that numerous religious bodies, including the National Council of Churches, endorse anti-discrimination policies on the basis of homosexuality.

"Are gays sick?" Hinman asked. "Homosexuality is not an illness," he answered.

Hinman reported that two dozen local organizations and the two county employe unions have endorsed the anti-discrimination policy.

Supervisor Edward J. Bacciocco Jr. expressed concern that an anti-discrimination policy might infringe on private clubs and organizations, forcing them to accept homosexuals.

Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson stated that federal and state laws do not require private organizations to open their membership to all applicants.

The board's action now will give the commission "unlimited opportunity to investigate unfair and illegal practices," the district attorney said.

Sorenson was directed by the board to make some technical changes in the ordinance amendment and return with the ordinance next week for introduction.

This is an annual affair at Abraham Lincoln School and the funds are used by the PTA for activities at the school.

Dennis Silvestor is running the event and he provides the booths, the games and the prizes.

He is a parent at the school and through his efforts the carnival is possible.

Friend of Mentally Retarded to Be Honored

By JANET PARKER

It's a shock when parents learn their child is mentally retarded.

A few parents, however, pick up their shattered hopes and work to overcome problems the mentally retarded child will encounter.

Flo Nelson of Millbrae is such a parent.

"We put so much pride in academic achievement," she said. "Somebody at the other end of the academic line is a very difficult thing to accept."

Mrs. Nelson has been involved in programs for the mentally retarded and handicapped throughout the state for 20 years.

She was honored at a testimonial dinner Friday by Kainos Friendship Club for her volunteer efforts.

She maintains a basic philosophy in working with mentally retarded children. If you wait until the youngster is out of high school to consider his or her futre, it's too late.

Parents, she said, should start thinking about vocational training and independent living for their youngster from the minute the child is old enough to enter school.

And, it's important for the family of the mentally retarded to deal with the deficiences of the youngster and not brush them aside.

"Once it's accepted by the family and the young person knows he or she is going to get a chance to develop potential, the child will accept his or her handicap," she said.

"We must get across to the young person they are handicapped but there are so many things they can do that will give them satisfaction," she said.

Mrs. Nelson first became involved with the handicapped in 1956 when her own son who is mentally retarded was seven.

Education for the handicapped was not mandatory until 1948, and in 1956 it was still a new field. Even then, only the educatable mentally retarded were ordered to schools.

The severely retarded and trainable weren't required to attend until the early 1960s. Consequently, there were very few young mentally retarded in education.

DETERMINED

For 20 years, Flo Nelson of Millbrae has devoted time, energy and patience to working with the mentally retarded.

Her own son was attending school in a quonset hut set up in San Bruno's Tanforan Navy Base.

"It wasn't the most desireable school facility," she recalls.

So, the parents worked together putting up sheet rock and painting the facility.

"That's where I first got involved," she said.

But Tanforan soon was sold and the school had to move. The children were the responsibility of the local school districts.

"I wanted to be sure they weren't stuck off in a corner or put back in the closet where they had been for so many years," she said. "It was the best thing for them to be integrated in the schools."

Gradually she saw the many needs of handicapped persons in recreation, and parents started taking the children to Millbrae Bowl where they bowled for free for five years.

That led to Mrs. Nelson's organization of a statewide bowling tournament for the retarded in 1964 and she served as its first chairwoman.

"When a retarded young person gets a trophy it makes him feel he is worth something and can do something. It's not a whole life of unachieving," she said.

A strike, she said, means perfection for them.

With the success of the bowling tournaments behind her, she organized the first California contigent to the National Special Olympics in Chicago in 1968. She was president of the Peninsula Association for Retarded Children and Adults, then.

Eight local children accompanied her to the Olympics in Chicago and she returned enthusiastic and hopeful.

With the U.S. Jaycees as co-sponsors, the California Association of Handicapped instituted the state special Olympics at Mrs. Nelson's persistence.

Close to 25,000 retarded persons in California now participate at the local level.

With that accomplished, she continued to organize the Crystal Springs Training Program. There, young retarded adults received vocational training as kitchen helpers and custodians in four-month training periods. About 50 persons were trained there before it closed because of lack of personnel and other factors.

Then, she was instrumental in founding the Belmont Horizon Home for six retarded men to live independently — each young man employed in the community.

"Retarded young people, as capable as they may seem, do need guidance," she said. "They don't have the reasoning to make judgements in all phases of daily living."

She says she's a firm believer in "taking the retarded with you."

She proved it this summer. Through the Millbrae Woman's Club, she chaperoned seven mentally retarded children on the S.S. Universe World Campus Afloat from June 21-Sept. 4 to the Mediterranean and back.

"Every young person on that ship knew a retarded person by the time we returned," she said. "They were accepted, and people went out of their way to do things."

On the cruise, the mentally retarded attended classes with the non-mentally retarded, and hidden talents surfaced. One young retarded man turned out to be an opera buff, another an avid chess player.

Her project now is the planned Kainos Home and Training Center in Redwood City. There, mentally retarded men and women will learn to live independently and at the same time receive guidance as they need it.

"Retarded young people need to be taught all the skills you and I pick up when we are growing up," she said. "They have so few opportunities. But you don't have to be a high achiever academically to develop living skills."

Young persons, retarded or otherwise, she said, must be accepted for what they are. It doesn't mean there can't be satisfaction in other ways.

"They may not be able to do all those things, but they can adjust and live a very rewarding life," she said.

A lot of responsibility, she said, falls on the parents and there's not too many parents who readily admit their child is retarded.

"But the more you talk about it, the more you can accept it," she said. "If you talk about it freely, everyone is going to have a different attitude."

The most important thing for parents, she said, is to realize that although the child has limitations, it's not the end of the world.

"We all just want to be accepted as human beings, no matter who we are," she said.

SUBARU

The Economy Car for Today's Economy

"Import Car of the Year"

—Road Test Magazine

U.S. sales up 94% during 1st 7 mos. of 1975!

HERE'S WHY:

The dramatic jump in Subaru sales (336% in July, 1975, alone!) isn't due simply to the fact that Subaru's list price starts at under $3,000. There are many other reasons. For example, our remarkable Quadrozontal engine. Incredible gas mileage. Front wheel drive. Important extras that come standard, such as push-button radios, reclining front bucket seats, white walls or radials, tinted glass. So whether you need a 5-door wagon, a sporty coupe or a 4-door sedan, visit us soon for a test-drive!

Peninsula Dealer Adds Subaru

Peninsula Volkswagen, long established as one of the Peninsula's leading import dealers, now has added another outstanding economy car to offer today's budget-conscious buyer — Subaru.

"Today, the average economy car is a luxury most people can't afford," says Bob Kissick, vice-president and sales manager for Peninsula Volkswagen-Subaru. "We are very excited about the addition of Subaru to our lineup, because we think it will be THE economy car for the '70s."

One Subaru model Bob can't stop talking about is the exceptional 5-door, 4-wheel drive station wagon. There are five other models, including a standard 5-door wagon, 2-door and 4-door sedans, a GL coupe, and the GF hardtop which won "Import Car of the Year" honors from ROAD TEST magazine. ROAD TEST called the GF "outstanding," "ingenious," and "tough as nails," phrases which aptly describe the rest of the Subaru array.

All Subarus are front-wheel drive (including the 4-wheel drive wagon model), and Environmental Protection Agency tests found Subaru got 33 miles per gallon on the highway, and 25 MPG in city driving. A list of 15 extras are included at no extra charge. The newly-developed SEEC-T engine with built-in emission controls will be standard equipment on all 1976 Subarus, enabling them to operate without add-on devices, converters, metering systems or air pumps.

Samuel Chandler

In San Mateo County, over 1,000 children live in foster care homes. While 382 homes are licensed to take care of displaced children, there is a growing need for more. In California in 1973 there were 4,437 minors in institutions that house youthful criminals. At the same time 11,852 minors were on parole while 2,758 children were convicted of committing their first crime.

Such statistics prompted the editors of U.S. News and World Report to look into conditions that affect the American family. Data that they assembled indicates that six million pre-school children have working mothers, yet licensed day care facilities are available for fewer than one out of six of these children.

THIRTY PER CENT of the school-age children in the United States are living with parents who have been divorced at least once. Because of divorce, desertion and illegitimacy one-sixth of all U.S. children under 18 years live in one parent families. At the same time, a majority of American mothers of schoolchildren now hold jobs outside of the home thus delegating child care to schools, nurseries and baby-sitters.

Because of these figures and many others a number of child and family authorities believe that childhood and adolescence in America is now and will be a bleak experience. As evidence for the validity of their pessimism they point out that at least one million young Americans run away from home each year. Suicide is the second-leading cause of death for Americans between 15 and 24. By age 17 one out of 10 American women — married and unmarried — is a mother.

One out of nine youths ends up in juvenile court before 18 years. Approximately 10 per cent of all school-age children have moderate to severe mental and emotional troubles. Drug abuse and alcoholism among teen-agers have become serious public health problems.

A LESS DRAMATIC, but more pervasive consequence of family disarray is the alienation and torpor of many adolescents in their work and life styles. This results in tremendous aspirations but very little discipline being directed toward achieving a goal.

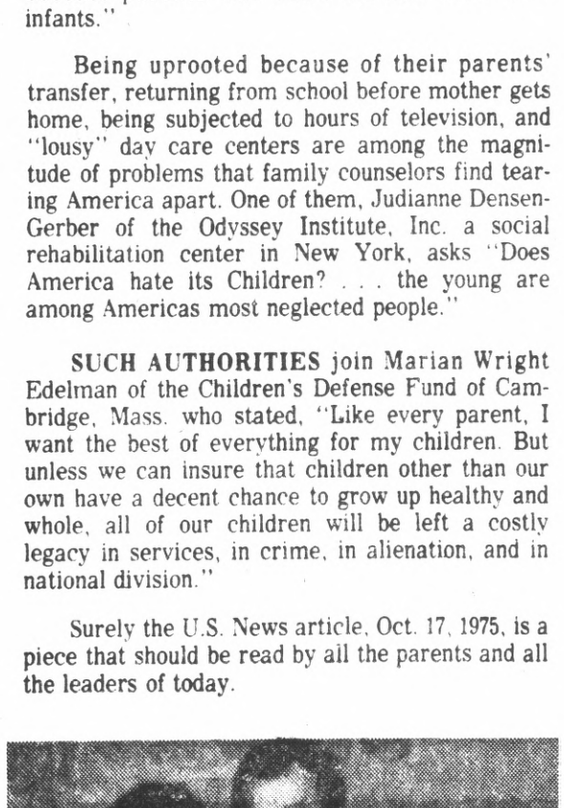
The U.S. News editors are led by such figures to ask if American parents can assume their role in child raising. In reply many family counselors answer that many new parents seem unprepared to cope with the basic needs of children in the crucial infant and preschool years.

Quoting Charles F. Greiger, supervisor of family and youth services for Catholic Social Services in Detroit, the U.S. News article states, "Babies are just not given the intimate attention they need . . . and these children grow up to become parents who don't nurture their own infants."

Being uprooted because of their parents' transfer, returning from school before mother gets home, being subjected to hours of television, and "lousy" day care centers are among the magnitude of problems that family counselors find tearing America apart. One of them, Judianne Densen-Gerber of the Odyssey Institute, Inc. a social rehabilitation center in New York, asks "Does America hate its Children? . . . the young are among Americas most neglected people."

SUCH AUTHORITIES join Marian Wright Edelman of the Children's Defense Fund of Cambridge, Mass. who stated, "Like every parent, I want the best of everything for my children. But unless we can insure that children other than our own have a decent chance to grow up healthy and whole, all of our children will be left a costly legacy in services, in crime, in alienation, and in national division."

Surely the U.S. News article, Oct. 17, 1975, is a piece that should be read by all the parents and all the leaders of today.



DANCING TO A FAVORITE TUNE

Mrs. Peter Balestrieri and Julian Fernando ask members of the parish and friends to join the "Parish-Festival Bicentennial Party to be held on Nov. 14, at 8:30 p.m. in the parish hall. Chairwoman Mrs. Thomas Shaddox says tickets will be sold for $5 a couple including a midnight buffet, music and prizes. For reservations call Mrs. Joseph Rubino, 992-2297.

PLAY FOR PTA

Several Colma Intermediate School Children presented a play recently to encourage their parents to join the PTA. The children are all in student government and were directed by their adviser. The young actors and actresses are (from left) William Ybona, Teri Garon, Gabriel Luna, Doug Levy, Joe Wilson, Sandra Nalls, Debra Haws, Charlene Cheverella and Celeste Layola. Their patient (on the table) is Michael Washington.

Costume Judging

This Friday will mark the first Spook Parade and Costume Contest to be held at the Westlake Shopping Center Mall.

The contest will begin promptly at 4 p.m. with the judging of the first category for children up to 6 years old.

Other categories for the contest will include children 7 to 9 years old and children 10 to 12 years old.

Gift certificates good for redemption for toys at King Norman's Kingdom of Toys, in Westlake, will be awarded for the most original costumes.

Judging for the event will be provided by members of the Westlake Merchants Association.

Writers' Meet Held In DC

A National Poetry Day and Creative Writing Communication Encounter was held at the Daly City Writers' Group Oct. 19.

Margaret O. Richardson, president of the group, now in its 10th year, says the room was packed to capacity.

Among the guests were Barbara Jean, free-lance writer-photographer.

Wanda, Tucker, variety writer, gave a seductive and dramatic poetry reading.

Claudette, 12-year-old daughter of Ms. Richardson, presented an Arkansas Newspaper clip of her published poem. Dennis Joyce read poetry from a booklet "Accent On Life," a poetry collaboration of his and Barbara Jean.

The booklets were autographed and distributed among the guests.

Other distributed material were "Western Animal News" and "Tack Shop Tales" and "The California Libertarian News."

Personal recommendations for the best writing courses at various schools were exchanged.

Anyone interested in attending future group meetings should phone 756-9409.

Junior Teen Dances Set

The Telstars, Imperials and Westlake Jr. Teen Clubs, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, will feature special Dances on Halloween night, Friday.

The Imperials will dance at the Robertson Gym, the Telstars at Westmoor Park Clubhouse, and the Westlake Jrs. at the Westlake Community Center.

The dances will feature lively contests and special dances throughout the bewitching hours from 7-9:30 p.m.

Admission is free for club members and 25 cents for guests.

Refreshments will be sold at all events.

Birthday Service

Sabbath services will be held at Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City on Friday at 8:30 p.m.

Services will be conducted by Rabbi Ira Book. Cantor Jacob Graudenz will chant the liturgy.

Highlight of the evening will be observance of Birthday Sabbath.

The children of Congregational members, whose birthdays occur during the month of October, will be called to the pulpit for a blessing and presented with a token gift. An Oneg Shabbat (Social Hour) hosted by two members of the Temple Sisterhood, will follow.

A junior service will be held on Shabbat morning, Saturday at 11 a.m., in the sanctuary, conducted by Rabbi Ira Book, assisted by Cantor Jacob Graudenz.

Religious school students participate (in some manner) in the service and each step of the Shabbat service is explained, by Rabbi Book, to those present.

To be read will be Parsha, "Hayeh Sarah."

SM County Designates New Open Space Zones

After four hearings, the San Mateo County Planning Commission acted Wednesday to place a number of open space areas in the county in new Resource Management (RM) zones to assure that zoning is consistent with the county general plan, as required by state law.

Temporarily exempted from the zone change were five golf courses whose owners contend the rezoning would devalue the property and make it virtually impossible to secure improvement loans.

The commission directed that the matter of rezoning the golf course lands be referred to the planning staff for "further discussion" with the golf clubs, with action being continued to the commission's Dec. 17 meeting.

Two of the largest land areas included in the RM zoning were 8.795 acres of the San Francisco watershed and 2,080 acres on San Bruno Mountain, including the property the county is negotiating to purchase for the San Bruno Mountain Regional Park.

As they have at previous hearings, representatives of golf courses proposed for inclusion in the RM zoning expressed their objections.

Frank Ingersoll, speaking for the Peninsula Golf and Country Club, said the proposed zoning is not practical for golf courses because it would "take about 90 per cent of the value of the property" in assessed valuation.

County Planning Director Donald A. Woolfe said he failed to see how the RM zoning would inhibit operation of golf courses.

Ingersoll said he was concerned that restrictions would restrict maintenance and operations by requiring the golf courses to go to the county if they wanted to plant or cut down a tree or reshape the course.

Woolfe replied that golf courses can conduct normal maintenance and operations without obtaining any but the normal permits, such as for grading and building.

Attorney James O'Gara Jr. said golf clubs are concerned that their property will be exposed to condemnation by public entities when the property values are decreased up to 80 per cent by RM zoning.

Woolfe insisted that RM zoning "does not automatically carry a drop in property values with it.

O'Gara noted that golf courses are mostly nonprofit organizations.

"If you want to lose money, go into the golf course business," he said.

O'Gara added he hoped the country "is not going into this Crystal Springs thing (the proposal to build a public golf course on portions of the watershed and the Filoli estate) as a money making proposition. It's going to get burned."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Henry Dietz told the commission it could defer and refer the golf club situation for discussion, a course the commission elected to follow.

The commission voted to include the Hassler Health Home property of 320 acres west of San Carlos in the RM zoning despite the pleas of Wallace Workman, director of property for the City of San Francisco, which owns the site.

Down-zoning the property would "drastically affect" the value of the property, Workman contended.

"It's another way of buying property cheap," he insisted, adding it could constitute inverse condemnation.

Workmen noted that the City of San Carlos, which wants to purchase the property, is seeking a federal grant to help in the financing. He asked for a delay in action until it can be determined if the purchase will go through.

If the property eventually is sold to private interests, Workman said, it is not going to be sold to developers who will place 300 dwelling units on it. The city would insist on a plan for a miximum of 100 units, he asserted. However, the RM zone would restrict the development to a total of 14 units, Workman contended.

The vote to include the Hassler property in the new zoning was 3 to 2 with Chairman Fred Cohen and Commissioner Wayne Thomas opposed. Other areas proposed by the planning staff for inclusion in the new zoning but exempted by the commission following protests by owners were the 1,376-acre Phleger property north of Huddart Park, the Bear Gulch Road properties adjacent to Wunderlich Park near Woodside, and a 56-acre parcel adjacent to Pillar Point Harbor on the Coastside.

Patty Rejects Visitor

A man who said he had come all the way from Chicago to trade places with Patricia Hearst was questioned by deputies and released Thursday night after he showed up at the San Mateo County jail in Redwood City.

He left a check for $5 with deputies and said he wanted the newspaper heiress to have it even if she was rich. "They might say they're rich, but what if they don't have a cent?" he said of the Hearst family.

He gave his name as Aldin Sylversteen and said he and his wife had driven for two weeks — stopping frequently for repairs for their 1963 Ford — just to see Miss Hearst in the San Mateo County Jail.

He said he wanted to trade places with her because, "We feel that she's still innocent. I don't believe anybody would kidnap someone and put a loaded gun in her hand. All the people in the East believe it too."

Sylversteen was one of the scores of persons who have asked to visit Miss Hearst since her arrest Sept. 18 on federal bank robbery charges. Their names are sent to her routinely and she rejects all visitors except her family and a few close friends.

Deputies held Sylversteen a few minutes Thursday night while they called the FBI in San Francisco to check him out. They said agents told them to release him.

Sylversteen, 56, said his wife was ill but they decided to make the trip anyway. In the car with them were "ten big cats and I don't know how many little ones."

He said the cats eat salmon and veal cutlets and he and his wife eat liver sausage sandwiches.

Sylversteen was disappointed at his reception. "I didn't come for power or money; I just want justice and truth," he told a reporter.

"These are really sneaky tactics. The Chicago police would never pull anything like this."

When he received word that Miss Hearst would not see him, he said he and his wife would drive back to Chicago immediately. "We don't like the California weather," he said. "It's not damp enough."

Chiefs Rap Cost of Alcohol Test

By FRANK LaPIERRE

A dramatic increase in the number of blood-alcohol tests given to drunken drivers has been given as the reason for charging San Mateo County police agencies for laboratory services performed by the coroner's office.

Daly City, location of the North County Pre-arraignment Detention Facility (PDF), was hit this week with a bill for $731. The charges were for 86 blood tests, it was learned.

Chief David Hansen echoed the sentiments of several other county police chiefs:

"I don't know where we'll get the money to pay this bill. Our (department) budget has already been locked in for the fiscal 1975-76 year."

Foster City police chief John Norton, head of the San Mateo County Police Chiefs Association, called the billings "a real bummer."

Norton said the coroner's office had provided cities with these services without charges in the past.

He feels the county makes enough money from fines, penalties and assessments to "more than compensate them for this service."

Like Hansen, Norton points out that city budgets have been finalized and no provisions have been made to get monies from other sources.

Earl Goodwin, assistant county manager, feels the charges are justified.

Cities get the "lion's share" of the fines received, according to Goodwin.

For example, the City of San Mateo gets 55 per cent and the county 45 per cent of all such fines, Goodwin explained.

Belmont, on the other hand, receives 93 cents on every dollar, Goodwin said.

The county's share goes toward operation of the courts — not to the county coroner's office, it was explained.

Two years ago the coroner's office handled some 2,000 blood tests per year. Today, that figure has shot up to more than 6,000 per year.

"We simply cannot handle this amount," Goodwin said.

For some time now the coroner's office has acted as merely a "middle agency" in the handling of the tests.

The samples taken from drunken-driving suspects have been contracted to outside medical facilities, Goodwin said.

This has drained the county's coffers by an estimated $56,000 per year (if the formula of $8.50 per blood tests times the number performed, is used).

In May 1975, Norton, on behalf on his association, sent a letter to County Manager M. D. "Marty" Tarshes, protesting the charges.

In his letter Norton pointed out the arguments of those police agencies opposing the charges.

There was no answer to his letter until earlier this month, he said.

Goodwin said the service charges came about after long study of the situation by the coroner's office, the Board of Supervisors and his own staff over the past several months.

The question was either to start charging or hire additional staff at the coroner's office.

According to Goodwin, some cities did take into consideration the possibility of charges being levied in their budgets.

The charges are the result of "some cities being more aggressive" in their crackdown on drunken-driving suspects, Goodwin said.

He would not name the cities that have increased their volume of such arrests.

The San Mateo County crime lab, however, performs toxicology tests for all police agencies, including the CHP, sheriff's office and cities.

"We take these tests to provide the district attorney's office with evidence in such cases," Norton said.

Goodwin responds that there is no intention of laboratory experts to testify at trials.

There are several alternatives to paying the county, it was learned.

Cities might contract with a local medical facility. Or they may start using the "Breatholator," a time-consuming, hard-to-operate device.

Skyline Stages Brecht

Produced entirely by students, Bertolt Brecht's "The Good Woman of Setzuan" will be presented at Skyline College on Nov. 6 and 7 at 8 p.m., and Nov. 8 at both 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. in the Studio Theater.

The play, a parable set in pre-Maoist China, reflects Brecht's philosophy that society is structured in such a way that it is impossible for good people to survive.

Under the sponsorship of Al Melodia, Skyline drama instructor, student Lynda West of South San Francisco is directing and producing the play.

Assisting West with technical aspects of the production will be Skyline students Bob Welch and Cliff Blume from Pacifica, and Emily Brawley, Bruce Couch, and Bob Klemm from Daly City.

Cast members from San Bruno are Craig Frow and Kaycarol Dias; from South San Francisco, Diana Stone, Ray Cushing, and Rich Senn; from Pacifica, Jill Morris, Pauline Pfandler, Verona DeWitt, Gail Dudrouzeff, Mary Bordeaux, and Kai Holmes; from Daly City, Rochelle Feldman, Sandy Lono, Mary Phillips, David Canfield, Steve Manion, and Jeff Wilbur; from Millbrae, Mark Stagnaro; from San Mateo, Danny Schwartz; from San Francisco, Kurt Reinhardt, Sunny Cochran, and Michael Lynch.

Receiving Stolen Gold Charged

Two former San Bruno business partners have been indicted by the San Mateo County Grand Jury on charges of receiving stolen "pure" gold over a two-year period.

The amount is undetermined, according to Assistant Dist. Atty. J. Robert Courshon, who along with Deputy Dist. Atty. William U'Ren presented the case.

Indicted Wednesday for conspiracy, attempted possession of stolen property and possession of stolen property were Margarito O. Romero, 53, of San Francisco, and Hugo F. Forster, 60, of Menlo Park.

Dist. Atty. Keith G. Sorenson said the two men will surrender and be arraigned before Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo sometime today.

They had been charged last June, but the case never reached preliminary hearing, Sorenson said. The indictment expands the alleged illegal acts.

Courshon said five witnesses who testified that they sold stolen gold to the defendants were granted immunity in return for their testimony.

The gold, Sorenson said, was scrap stolen from such businesses as Hewlett-Packard and Fairchild. Employes of those businesses testified.

The defendants operated R&F Metal Co. at 1041 San Mateo Ave., San Bruno.

Notre Dame Sets Play

Eugene O'Neill's well-known play, The Emperor Jones, will be the opening dramatic production of the College of Notre Dame theatre arts department this year.

It will be presented Nov. 12, 13, 14 and 15 in the Carriage House Theatre on campus.

Written in 1920, four years after O'Neill's first play was produced and the same year he won the first of his three Pulitzer Prizes, The Emperor Jones established him as America's foremost playwright — a position he still holds, according to Mrs. Joline Bettendorf, Notre Dame faculty member directing the play.

Nell Norton

Just two more days and Halloween will be here. Are you ready for the arrival of the little ghosts and goblins at your door?

If you have small spooks in residence, you will want to plan an early dinner so you can take them on their acquisitive rounds. I have the recipes for just such a meal to share with you.

In honor of the day, we'll start off with this colorful salad. The carrots and raisins give it the right Halloween color.

HAWLLOWEEN SALAD

4 carrots
½ heads of cabbage
4 slices pineapple
¼ cup raisins
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon pineapple juise.

Peel and grate the four carrots. Grate or chop the half head of cabbage fine and mix with carrots.

Cut the four slices pineapple into small pieces and add to the vegetables along with the fourth cup raisings. Combine the half cup mayonnaise, one tablespoon each sugar and pineapple juice. Pour over slaw.

Mix well and chill.

WHAT TO SERVE with this salad? How about a casserole that combines ground beef and zucchini, along with other delicious ingredients? Besides being easy to make, it's comparatively inexpensive.

BEEF ZUCCHINI CASSEROLE

1 pound ground beef
6 medium zucchini
½ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons oil
½ cup cracker crumbs
1 teaspoons salt
pepper to taste
4 tablespoons margarine
¼ cup flour
2 cups milk
1 cup grated yellow cheese

Wash the six zucchini and cut off ends. Cook while in boiling salted water about eigth minutes. Drain and cut into half-inch slices.

Cook the half cup chopped onion in 2 tablespoons oil for three minutes. Add the pound ground beef, cook until slightly browned and pour off excess oil. Stir in the half cup cracker crumbs, one teaspoon salt and pepper to taste. Remove from heat.

Melt the four tablespoons margaine in saucepan, stir in the fourth cup flour, blend well.

Stir in the two cups milk, and cook, stirring, until thickened. Add the cup of grated cheese and stir until melted.

Place half the zucchini in a greased 2-quart casserole. Add half the meat and half cheese sauce. Repeat layers.

Bake 30 minutes in 350-degree oven. Serves 6 to 8.

Wedding Scheduled For San Bruno Couple

Newly engaged are Marilyn Elaine Navilhon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Navilhon, and Stephen Lee Bowles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bowles. Both families live in San Bruno.

She is the sister of Janet and Larry Navilhon and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smith.

The couple will be married on June 19 of next year.

HMB Gets Petition on Center

A letter of concern about the potential traffic, noise and lights from the new Strawflower Shopping Center was considered by the Half Moon Bay City Council Tuesday night and referred to the Planning Commission.

Over a dozen nearby residents signed the letter, which said there were 80 children residing in that area along Pilarcitos Creek west of the Cabrillo Highway-San Mateo Road intersection.

With a movie house and pizza parlor in the shopping center there is a good possibility also that the area could become a "hangout" for outsiders and undesirables, as the Pilarcitos Creek bed has been, the letter went on.

Lights from the shopping center also could make sleeping at night a problem because most of the ocean view homes in the area have their bedrooms built on the landward side, where the nearby Alpha Beta shopping center lights already have disturbed them, the residents claimed.

NOTICE

Thursday is the deadline for submission of material for consideration for publication in The Post.

IT'S YOUR MONEY

Q. I'm a widow, 67, and my monthly supplemental security income checks are my only income. Someone has asked me to work a few hours a week making lampshades. If I take the job, I'll be paid about $6 a week. Will that be taken off my supplemental security income payments?

A. No. People 65 and over (or blind or disabled) with no other income can earn as much as $85 a month and get their full supplemental security income payment. Their supplemental security income payment is reduced by $1 for every $2 earned over $85.

Barbara Bladen Three Films Fall Short of Promise

Of three films in the San Francisco Festival that started out with high promise, neither the Hungarian entry, "The Unfinished Sentence," France's "Dear Victor" nor the Swiss-French offering "The Wonderful Crook" are sufficiently diverting to sustain a commercial release in the future.

The first is interesting and the best of the trio; the second is strange and not the least bit engaging; and, the third is only mildly amusing.

"The Unfinished Sentence" is based on a well known Hungarian novel of life in Hungary during the mid-1930s. It deals with the unhappy life of Lorinc Parcen-Nagy, a bourgeois. And, the bourgeoisie by definition are just no good; a film theme we see repeated over and over.

Unfortunately, director Zoltan Fabri loses his viewers early in the film because of the use of montage effects, of cut backs and cut forwards that are very arty, but monumentally confusing.

Another major difficulty is struggling with inept subtitles. Long passages of dialogue are not translated at all or the characters speak in German. The thread of the plot concerns an industrialist's young son who is desperate to break his family ties and align himself with the objects of his decadent family's exploitation. But they want no part of him and he becomes an outcast of both social structures.

My colleague Theresa Cone who speaks Hungarian assured me that the film makes sense and agrees the subtitles present a handicap to the enjoyment of an otherwise high-quality film.

"Dear Victor" starts out as a bittersweet comedy about two old codgers sharing an apartment in Paris. It soon turns into a black comedy when the seemingly patient and kindly Anselme, fed up with the tyranny, rudeness and harping domination of his long time friend Victor, fashions ways to drive him insane.

They appear for about 10 minutes of the film to be a sort of French odd-couple. But humiliation and revenge for petty grievances take their toll when Victor does go insane and strangles Anselme's ex-diva girlfriend this leaving the ruthless old man completely alone and friendless.

There are some funny moments in this film by the young French director Robin Davis who also wrote the screenplay with Patrick Laurent. And Jacques Dufilho as Victor and Bernard Blier as Anselme give superb performances. Alida Valli as the overripe graduate of La Scala Opera does very well indeed.

But it is an unsuccessful first picture; the central characters are so thoroughly unpleasant and obnoxious men that they allow no room for empathy or concern. It is one of the very few films during the past 10 days that I've strongly wanted to walk out of but couldn't.

A few years ago Claude Goretta brought his film "The Invitation" to the San Francisco Film Festival where it was well received.

Like "The Invitation," his most recent work, "The Wonderful Crook," is styled as a "little" film, a sweet gentle comedy. But it belongs on the second half of a double bill, it's so flimsily constructed and foolishly padded out.

Gerard Depardieu plays the son of a furniture manufacturer who inherits the operation of the factory when his father becomes ill. The product is too expensive and doesn't sell. Ignoring Adam Smith's advice about cutting losses in a losing situation, Depardieu launches a career of crime in order to raise money to keep the factory going.

He robs a bank or two, heists a Swiss post office and falls in live at first sight with Marlene Jobert, a postal clerk who faints daintily when he fires a warning shot.

The two team up as bank robbers while carrying on their affair while the male partner continues leading a double life, shuttling between girlfriend and wife and adorable child.

Pollution Solution Accord for Cities

San Bruno, South San Francisco and Tillo Products Co., warned two weeks ago by the California Regional Water Quality Control Board that they were polluting state waters, say they have agreed on how best to correct the polluting conditions.

The Water Quality Control Board told the two cities and Tillo to "clean up and abate" conditions causing the pollution or face criminal or civil action. The three got together Friday.

The control board advised that sludge being pumped from the treatment plant to a process area maintained by Tillo Products was overflowing dikes and spilling into the San Bruno Canal and San Francisco Bay. The board also said the wind was blowing rice hulls into the Bay and the canal.

South San Francisco partially owns and wholly operates the treatment plant located off Belle Air Road and east of Highway 101. San Bruno uses the facility and owns 30 per cent of it. Tillo Products operates under an agreement with the two cities to blend sewage sludge with rice hulls and other materials to form a soil conditioner.

San Bruno City Engr. Leo Van Dusen said it was decided Friday that Tillo Products will enlarge a pit at the east end of the process area where rice hulls will be buried and covered with a layer of sludge. That, it is hoped, will prevent wind from blowing the hulls into the Bay, Van Dusen said.

It also was agreed that Tillo will enlarge a sludge lagoon in the process area so that sludge will not overflow the dikes.

self to be and was so whimsically acknowedged for years by the good-natured citizenry. Some 30,000 people attended the rites, and buildings all over the city were draped in black."

Personal and political differences led to the shooting duel between United States Senator David C. Broderick and State Supreme Court Judge David S. Terry on Sept. 13, 1859 in a Daly City meadow.

It was the last duel fought in California and the public was so outraged over the incident that the survivor, Judge Terry, fled the Bay Area in fear of his life.

Broderick, who is buried in Cypress Lawn Cemetery, was anti-slavery and Terry was pro-slavery. The duel location is now a historical site.

William Henry Crocker has left his imprint solidly on the Bay Area, indeed, the entire country.

A Hillsborough resident after whom many public facilities have been named, he was a banker and pioneer in the Bay Area.

The Crocker family moved to the Peninsula from San Francisco.

Miller said records indicate the Crocker family donated the land where San Francisco's Grace Cathedral was built.

Perhaps one of the most powerful men in the world, and certainly the nation, was publisher William Randolph Hearst, who died in 1951.

Besides building the world-renowned Hearst Castle at San Simeon, Hearst built a newspaper empire that included 17 cities from the Atlantic to Pacific seaboard.

Starting with his father's small "San Francisco Daily Examiner" in 1887, the 24-year-old Hearst began to spread out until, by 1925 he owned most of the country's major newspapers.

Hearst's magnificent tomb is located inside the Cypress Lawn Cemetery, Colma.

Also at Cypress is the burial site of sugar king Claus Spreckles, who came to San Francisco in 1856.

From a modest start in 1863, Claus and his brother built up his sugar refining and distribution business until his products were sold along the entire Pacific Coast and his sugar cane plantations covered much of the Hawaiian Islands.

He died in 1908.

A simple white marble headstone marks the grave of Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Nearby are the admiral's three staff officers who served with the hero in World War II: Admiral Richard K. Turner (died 1961); Vice Admiral Charles A. Lockwood (died 1967); and, Admiral Raymond A. Spruance (died 1969).

Nimitz was interred in the national cemetery on Feb. 24, 1966 — the 81st birthday "of this faithful servant of the United States of America."

a fine which would have been levied, in equal amount, if court appearance had been made.

Because of this practice, one officer said, most people think of parking ticket fees as "fines," which many people think is money returned to the city.

Lt. Chase said the judges of the county's "Central Judicial Council," are the ones who set the bail fees. He said he understands that the judges made the recent increase, county-wide, in an attempt to equalize bail fees which varied from community to community.

Judge Haverty said other changes have also been considered.

"Every year we review the county bail schedule for the whole county. Municipal judges are responsible for setting bails on misdeameanors, traffic tickets and things like that. Superior court judges set bails on felonies.

Chief Deputy Municipal Court Clerk Marilyn Losee said a portion of the money is returned to the cities, according to a percentage "determined in Sacramento.

Burlingame Police Chief Gerald Nordstrom said city apportionments were set by the state in the 1950s, when the older city court system was replaced by the Municipal District Court system.

"It's set up in the Penal Code," Chief Nordstrom said, "based on how much it costs each city to maintain the courts they had at that time."

Penal Code Section 1463 reveals that, in San Mateo county, the proportion of traffic fines paid for violations in a city and allotted to the county for operation of the court system ranges from 7 per cent in Belmont to 75 per cent in Hillsborough.

Turning that around, Belmont gets 93 per cent of all Belmont parking fine money collected by the courts, Hillsborough gets 25 per cent of all Hillsborough fines.

Among other cities, San Mateo is next highest, "paying" 42 per cent and being returned 58 per cent.

Colma gets 60 per cent of all traffic fines collected in its borders, Burlingame gets 62 per cent, Atherton and Redwood City get 73 per cent, Daly City gets 76 per cent, Millbrae gets 84 per cent, San Bruno gets 87 per cent, Menlo Park and South San Francisco get 88 per cent, San Carlos gets 92 per cent, and Belmont gets 93.

Other cities, such as Pacifica and Half Moon Bay, are apportioned on the same basis as that which the county pays itself, 21 per cent to the county general fund, 79 per cent to the local jurisdiction.

DC Arsonist Suspected

An arsonist is on the loose in Daly City today, Battalion Chief Wayne Alexander warned in the wake of four fires in the Chester-Villa street area of the city.

The fires were "definitely set" early Monday in apartment house garages on Villa and Chester Streets, Alexander said.

No one was hurt in the fires and only minor damage was inflicted on the structures, it was learned.

The first alarm came in about 2 a.m. when smoke was seen pouring from a street level garage at 631 Villa St.

No sooner had firemen put out this fire than another alarm was received from a resident at 601 Villa.

A third fire was soon reported at 699 Villa and a fourth at 60 Chester St., Alexander said.

At the Chester Street fire, an unidentified resident found a one gallon gasoline can, believed used by the arsonist in setting the blazes.

$8,000 Fire at DC Home

Two downstairs bedrooms in a Daly City home were damaged heavily by fire Friday.

A Daly City Fire Department spokesman said the cause of the blaze is undetermined. He said the fire started in one of the two bedrooms, where two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio T. Cruz slept.

Firemen estimated damage to the 147 Acacia St. structure at $8,000. Smoke and water damage throughout the house was reported.

Neither of the boys, Antonio, 13, and Felix, 17, were home when the fire started, but their mother and a small child were upstairs.

Mrs. Cruz smelled smoke, left the house and called firemen. The home is on the San Francisco-Daly City boundary and fire equipment from both cities were dispatched under a mutual assistance pact.

Testimonial Slated to Honor Police Chief

A testimonial honoring Broadmoor Police Chief Ray W. Savage will be held Saturday at the Red Chimney Restaurant in Stonestown.

More than 350 persons are expected to attend the event.

Chief Savage will retire from the State's last police district on the day of his testimonial dinner, after some 25 years in uniform.

Guest speaker at the event will be the Honorable Frank Blum, Judge of the San Mateo County Superior Court (retired), with Broadmoor Police Commissioner Jack McCloskey acting as master-of-ceremonies.

Resolutions commending Savage on his years of service are expected to come from the county and state legislature.

He joined the Broadmoor police reserves in 1950 and became a regular officer one year later.

In 1952, Savage was named acting police chief.

Three years after he joined the department, Savage was appointed chief of the community's three-man department.

Married, Ray and his wife, Rose, have a son, William R., and a grandson, Raymond Steven Savage.

Savage is a former member of Local 85, Teamsters Union, and active in the San Mateo County Police Chiefs' Association; California Police Chiefs' Association; Peninsula Police Officers Association; Northern California Narcotics Officers Association; Northern California Burglary Investigators Association, and a member of the community resource committee.

Man Robs Messenger

A man wearing a pullover ski mask and an army fatigue jacket robbed a 19-year-old messenger outside the First National Bank of Daly City on Mission Street shortly before midnight Saturday.

He fled after taking some $2,500 from a bank pouch being carried by Cindy Mitchell, an employe of the Matthew's TV, 6400 Mission St., Daly City.

The victim was on her way to place the pouch in the bank's night depository when the man robbed her, police said.

Closing Criteria Told

A report projecting a significant decrease in enrollment by 1980 and the criteria for closing a school were presented to the South San Francisco Unified School District Board of Trustees Thursday.

An 18-page report by educational administrator Edward LaFranchi of the University of Southern California documented much of what the board already knew councerning its enrollment.

But the report also showed that the school district is near to the need to close at least one of its 21 school sites.

"The elementary school enrollment has now dropped to a level which permits the closing of one school," the report showed.

"Substantial savings can be achieved by discontinuing the operation of a school and assigning the pupils attending that school to other schools," the report continues.

By 1978-79, the report says, two of the 14 elementary schools possibly may be closed in order to bring the average school size to a more economical level.

The state allocates money, LaFranchi said, on the basis of enrollment and the district will need to determine how to secure more money or reduce costs as enrollment declines.

"This is an attempt to look into the future but it's important to recognize there will be errors," LaFranchi told the board.

He said the projected enrollment decrease for the 21 schools is a result of the declining birth rate experienced in nearly all school district in recent years.

"It appears your peak has been reached in junior highs and will drop from now on," he said.

SSFUSD is a kindergarten-through-high-school district.

LaFranchi has been active in school enrollment projections for more than 25 years.

He is known nationally for his accurate school enrollment projections, district officials said, and this year his projection for the SSFUSD was 15 per cent off the actually enrollment.

In the report attending to 1981, he projects that there will be 824 fewer pupils in 1980-81 than there is now.

LaFranchi said the enrollment decrease will be steady, with the district losing anywhere from 40 to 210 pupils each year until 1980.

The administrator said the worst decline will be at the elementary school level.

Average elementary school enrollment will drop, the report shows, from 473 in 1976 to 466 in 1980.

The implications of enrollment decrease also were included in the lengthy report.

The states allocates money, LaFranchi said, on the basis of enrollment and the district will need to determine how to secure more money or reduce costs as enrollment declines.

LaFranchi cited the possibilities of:

• reducing the number of employes. If the school enrollment declines 8 per cent as projected, the number of employes should be reduced 8 per cent.

Sister City Plan Mulled in S. Bruno

San Bruno Bicentennial Committee Chairperson Loretta Currie Thursday appointed a subcommittee of three to recommend a bicentennial sister city.

Mrs. Curry named Mike Kaiser, George Knudson and Jean Pelletiere to serve on the sub-committee.

She charged the committee with selecting a sister city from among any city in the 13 original colonies that are now states. She asked that the committee choose a city about the same size as San Bruno.

Mrs. Currie told the committee members that 13 cities in the county already had chosen sister cities. She said if a sister city is chosen, characteristics unique to San Bruno and the sister city could be shared.

"Students could correspond between cities and public officials could exchange views," Mrs. Currie said.

The subcommittee will make a recommendation at the bicentennial committee's next meeting in November.

Also at the committee meeting Thursday, Myron Gershensen of the San Mateo County Historical Association told the committee the association would help San Bruno with its bicentennial activites.

He said the association had much material available to help the committee plan its bicentennial year events.

Gershensen suggested that the committee use the association's many photos of old scenes in San Mateo County taken between 1860 and 1920, then re-photograph the contemporary scene.

He also advised the group of the many reference materials available at the historical association.

The bicentennial committee's next meeting will be held at the Crystal Springs Terrace Apartments recreation room.

Moscone To Talk

State Sen. George Moscone will be featured speaker at the 25th annual convention of the California Association of Health Facilities to be held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, San Francisco, from Nov. 16-20.

The San Francisco Democratic political leader will address a luncheon honoring past presidents of the nursing home and convalescent hospital association at 1 p.m. Nov. 18.

His topic will be "Problems of the Aged," according to Mary Ellen Forrest of San Francisco, convention chairman.

Special Bus Service Set for Handicapped

"Handicapped persons frequently have been unable to travel because of the added cost of being with a companion who could help minister to their needs," Kerrigan said. "Our new program will make transportation costs no more for a handicapped person than for anyone else and still provide for their special requirements."

To be eligible for the special fare, now in effect, a handicapped person will need a written statement from a doctor stating that she or he needs a companion to assist in boarding, exiting and traveling by bus.

A special "Helping Hand" service to assist the handicapped in traveling by bus has been announced by Greyhound Lines, Inc., the world's largest bus line.

Key feature of the "Helping Hand" service is a special fare which allows a companion to travel free to assist any handicapped persons who needs help in boarding, exciting and traveling on a bus.

James L. Kerrigan, president of Greyhound Lines, said that the special fare will apply to all Greyhound regular rates and special fares such as the unlimited travel Ameripass.

Children's Activities Under Way

Children's activities are underway at the recently-opened Serramonte branch of the Daly City Public Library, according to David Griffin and Janie Watson, reader services librarians at Serramonte.

Included in the program are a weekly story hour, a book club for fourth, fifth and sixth graders, and after-school activities such as movies and crafts.

Thursday morning from 10:15 to 11 is story time at Serramonte for 3 to 5-year-olds. Linda Montgomery, a library assistant who has worked with preschoolers, will be in charge of this activity.

Older children will not want to miss the Halloween movies to be shown Oct. 30 at 3:30 p.m. At this time, children may sign up for the book club to be led by Nancy Dillon, another library assistant who has previously taught elementary school.

For more information on the children's program, call the Serramonte librarians at 878-8900. The new library is located in Gellert Park, at 70 Wembley Drive.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON ★

No Trick, All Treat, Halloween

The Skinny Gourmet on Palm Avenue, San Mateo, is offering a special treat for trick-or-treaters. As an alternative to highly caloric and sugared Halloween give-aways, Skinny Gourmet will give their delicious frozen dessert cup to any child 12 years old or younger on October 31. They are also offering special gift certificates, good through December 1, at five cents apiece, 50 for $2. . . . Joy Kapur, who has garnered quite a reputation at his Taj Mahal West as a Hindu mystic, is offering a valuable offer (in the form of a coupon) in today's "Bright Lights." Buy one dinner and the second dinner is half-price with the coupon. Exotic cuisine of India is what to expect. . . . Menu-wise, Enrico Romano has all bases covered. His Romano's in Rockaway Beach offers traditional Italian dinners, seafood and sandwiches. Frog Legs is a house specialty. . . . Hamburger Inn, one of the nine restaurants in the Tanforan Park Garden Restaurant complex, is also one of the most popular when it comes to redeeming the special 50 cent coupon (see today's "Bright Lights. Valid through Nov. 12, this coupon may be applied toward any purchase over $1 at Hamburger Inn or any of the other Garden Restaurants.

Bay Meadows' Post Time 12:30 p.m.

The California Jockey Club race meet at Bay Meadows is attracting record-breaking crowds Tuesdays through Saturday. The new post time is 12:30 p.m., instead of 1 p.m. Join the crowds and brighten up your afternoon. Daily Double, Exacta, and a nine race card, highlighted with the country's top jockeys and thoroughbreds, await your turf visit . . . What well-known restaurateur has enough courage to compete with himself, yet remain rousingly successful? None other than Pacifica's Nick Gust, who, along with his hard-working family, has created three distinctive restaurant operations within feet of each other (Nicks's, the original, The Moonraker, and Captain Charles, named in honor of Nick's father) . . . The Nevada Tours packages are still in effect and attracting vacation-conscious folks who seek "fun and play the Nevada way." Generous bonus packages await your call . . . Browsing among the art treasures in the elegantly decorated Wellington Room at Phil Lehr's Pay-By-The-Ounce Steakery in downtown San Francisco is like taking a "quickie" tour of the Louvre. Phil Lehr's Steakery now has two locations: The original at Taylor and Ellis parking lot entrance, and the new restaurant in the Hilton Hotel Tower, Taylor near Ellis. Reservations are suggested.

Crowds Gather for Stickney's Specials

Roast Tom Turkey, Salmon Steak and Ground Round Loaf en Croute are among the featured Monday-through-Thursday dinner attractions this week at Adrian Stickney's Hick'ry Houses. These specials, plus Stickney's Golden Fried Chicken, are also available at The Flamingo in Palo Alto . . . It's not true that oysters are in season only in months with "R". At least, this is the report from Vince Licata, owner of Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant, who is one of the Peninsula's experts when it comes to seafood. Vince's San Mateo restaurant always features Long Island Oysters on the Half Shell, which are always in season, along with numerous other seafood specialties. . . . With the Circle Star Theater season in full swing, Scotty Campbell's is bustling with diners before and after the performances. This hospitable Redwood City restaurant has long been favored for dinner by visiting celebrities and localites, alike . . . Lehr's Greenhouse restaurant, a glass-enclosed dining spa in San Francisco, has 13 huge gas torchiers from the Coliseum set in M.G.M.'s movie spectacular, "Ben Hur," to illuminate the dozens of plants and ferns hanging from the roof.

Highway Funding 'Double' Bind Cited

By GEORGE GOLDING

If San Mateo and its cities want new highways, they may have to finance them, California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) spokesman Dan Connolly told the Regional Planning Committee last week.

The bad news was received as the main message of a session called Thursday night to review "possible options for unfreezing federal and state funds for local road programs."

"I can see that was a mistake," said Chairperson Lore Radisch of San Carlos. "There are no funds to unfreeze."

Not exactly, explained Connolly.

Federal "matching funds" are available, but the state has no money to provide the "match."

If the cities can do so, "that will be acceptable, and we'll be most thankful," he said.

Otherwise, unless there are new sources of revenue for state highway funding, there will be no new highway construction in California for years to come.

"We're bankrupt," Connolly said.

"We'll try to do what we call a maintenance and operations program, repairing what we have now, doing safety projects, finding bottlenecks and clearing them up when we can.

Even such major projectors as the tie-in of Interstate 380 and Bayshore Freeway, and the extension of Freeway 101 from Morgan Hill to San Jose, both partly completed, will stand unfinished, he said.

While prices have gone up and demands increased, he said, revenue from gasoline taxes, auto license fees and other sources has gone down.

The result is that the current fiscal year's budget has only $6 million available for capital improvements and construction, with hundreds of millions worth of projects waiting. Connolly said the state's lack of funding has a "multiplying effect" because federally-financed projects usually bring in five to nine federal dollars for each state dollar.

A first step of Caltrans he said, was to lay off 3300 people, at an expected annual savings of $60 million per year, which Connolly predicted would "disappear in inflation within three years."

The next step, he said, is to seek new sources of income.

RPC member Michael Barrett of Redwood City proposed the group write a letter of support for new highway revenues, to Sen. Randolph Collier and others involved in studying highway finance.

Barrett's proposal was hotly contested, but was finally approved by a vote of 9 to 7.

Leading opponent was Art Lepore of Millbrae, who said that what is needed is "a reprioritization" of spending.

He said the federal government had financed Interstate and other highways as "military roads," and ought to pay for maintenance of them, freeing up state funds for needed improvements.

San Mateo County Engineer's spokesman Bob Sans retorted that cities and counties "are in the same boat" as the state, or soon will be.

This year, Sans said, "12 counties are unable to do more than maintainace and operations work. By 1977, 24 counties will be unable to do even this, and by 1981, 56 of California's 58 counties will be able to support only maintenance and administration.

"I believe the cities will be going the same way," he said.

A problem for the cities and counties, he said, is the "double bind" which results from a lack of state funding.

As state funds are directed more and more toward maintenance of the highway system, Sans said, city and county funds will also be reduced by dwindling revenues from gasoline tax funds at the same time that heavier demands are placed on local funding to take over construction and maintenance work formerly done by the state.

Sans predicted the State might soon "abandon El Camino Real to the cities, and say, "Here, it's yours, you take care of it, signals and all."

Not only El Camino Real, he said, "but all roads that are not designated as freeways."

Book Review Slated Nov. 6

Father Timothy Rudolph, St. Martin's Episcopal Church, will review for The Friends of the Daly City Library, "Whatever Happend to Sin?" by Karl Menninger, M.D., of the Menninger Clinic, Nov. 6, 7:30 p.m. in the community cultural room, Serramonte Library, 40 Wembly Drive.

According to Mrs. Joseph Canada, book review chairwoman, Father Rudolph, with his wide background of education and experience, is a most interesting reviewer.

Menninger saves his preface to the end of the book in an epilogue, which he presents in the form of a summary, part of which says: "Cry comfort, cry repentance, cry hope. Because recognition of our part in the world transgression is the only remaining hope."

One of the country's most eminent psychiatrists, Menninger received his doctorate in medicine cum laude from Harvard University and has been awarded many honorary degrees. He has been chairman of the board of trustees and member of the education committee of the Menninger Foundation, founded the Menninger School of Psychiatry in 1946, and was dean 1946-69.

Three Artists at Pacifica Gallery

Pat Bouris lives in the cottage behind the Sanchez Adobe. She has painted for 10 years studying with George Post and Ralph Ledesma. She has attended workshops with Jade Fon, Richard Yip and Nat Levi. Her works include oils and watercolors.

Mrs. Bouris has exhibited at the San Mateo County Fair, the Welesley-Crescent Park Art Show, Arden Wood Benevolent Association and the Richard Yip Art Exhibit. She currently is teaching watercolor in San Francisco.

Dolores Houston Joyner received her BA in art at UCLA with additional work at California State University at San Francisco.

She attended both the Academy of Fine Arts, and the Art Institute, Florence, Italy.

While at UCLA she studied under Shiro Ikegawa. She currently is a substitute teacher for Laguna Salada Union School District.

Ms. Joyner has painted a series of children in various activities from reading to skateboarding.

Tom Maddock received his BA and MA in art (sculpture) from Humboldt State College. He taught in Oklahoma for a year.

Maddock now drives a logging truck and farms in Leaburg, Ore. He will apply for another teaching position next spring.

Maddock's work is titled "stills and Movements." He has a series of sculptures which involve the viewer in pushing levers, turning wheels and pulling a rope.

The show will run through Nov. 15. Gallery hours are noon to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Saturday., noon-5 p.m. Sunday. Closed on Mondays.

Halloween Garb Warning Given

Don't "dress to kill" when outfitting the children for Halloween, warns Pacifica Fire Department.

Fire-safe costumes, whether purchased ready-to-wear or made at home, can help keep Halloween "a fun time" by saving members of the trick-or-treat set from accidents causing painful burns or even greater tragedy, says Fire Chief Calvin Hinton.

According to National Fire Protection Association studies reported by the chief, the greatest Halloween hazard is the clothing fire.

Here are some suggestions for helping make Halloween a happy, fire-safe occasion each time Oct. 31 rolls around:

Costumes should be labeled "flameproof" or, if made at home, should undergo flameproofing treatment. Even then, remember that flameproofing must be renewed each time a costume is washed or gets wet and that any clothing will burn to some extent.

Avoid costumes with flimsy fabric, flowing sleeves, huge skirts — especially those traditional billowing robes of ghosts and witches, made of old sheets which easily catch fire when whipped toward flames or sparks by the autumn wind.

Safest disguises are "natural" masks of cosmetic make-up or charcoal applied directly to the skin. Commercial masks, wigs and beards should be marked "flameproof."

Use a flashlight — never a lighted candle — to illuminate a pumpkin. Keep children well away from bonfires, fireplaces, sparks and other sources of intense heat.

Keep Halloween decorations away from lighted candles and light bulbs. Be especially careful with the colorful leaves, corn husks and similar tinder-dry materials used in Autumn displays.

Hinton also urged parents to dress the youngsters in costumes light enough so motorists will see them, and short enough so the children won't trip over them.

Finally, he cautions, small children should be in the charge of and in sight of a responsible older person at all times.

'Day in the Park' For San Brunans

The "good old days" are back Sunday when the Bicentennial Committee of San Bruno presents an "Old Fashion Day In the Park."

The "Day In the Park" is the first of many activities planned by the Bicentennial Committee.

The program of activities, which will continue through next summer, is designed to arouse community interest in national programs.

This Sunday's event has been planned as a family day in the park where people can meet other San Brunans.

Entertainment will be provided by the Crestmoor High School Symphonic Band.

The band, directed by Merriweather Mason, will perform from 1-2 p.m.

Following the band will be a tap-dance exhibition by the San Bruno Park and Recreation Department dancers directed by Suzie Wilson.

The Bicentennial Committee hopes to sponsor a number of days in the park such as this throughout the year and activities in the park will culminate next spring with a weekend-long celebration that will feature music, dancing and games.

Skyline College Course

Dog Obedience Class

To make your dog more responsive to commands enroll your pet in "Advanced Dog Obedience."

In this Skyline College Community Services offering, you will not only learn to make your dog responsive to verbal commands, but the use of hand signals as well. This class will also cover retrieving objects, and recall.

This seven-week session will begin on Saturday, Nov. 1, at 10 a.m. in the Studio Theater. It is under the instruction of Daly City Police Sgt. Richard Seguine, who has studied dog training methods in Europe.

The only equipment needed for this course is a six-foot leash, a choke collar, and a dog at least six months old.

Course reservation forms can be found on Community Services brochures which are available from libraries in north San Mateo County. Interested persons may also register at the Main Theater Box Office on campus between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. weekdays. For further information call 355-7000, Extension 231.

Film of Conclave

A film of the pre-bicentennial conference of Nichiren Shoshu Academy held in Hawaii last July will be shown Nov. 5.

NSA is the name of the organization in America that is following the teachings of Nichiren Shoshu and the center for the San Francisco Bay Area is located in Daly City.

The showing will be at 7:30 p.m. in the City Hall Council Chambers.

LWV Schedules Leader Training

Leadership training and how the League of Women Voters operates will be the focus of attention at the next league meeting scheduled for Nov. 4, 12:30-2:30 p.m., at St. Martin's Church, 777 Southgate Ave., Daly City.

Several league members will conduct mini-workshops working with small groups.

Frances McCullough, coordinator of the League's Observer Corps, will discuss the role of an observer of city councils, commissions and local school boards.

Pat Avanessian will answer questions on candidates' nights and contributions of the league toward the election process while Marilyn Wills will outline the roles of the discussion leader and recorder of League meetings.

The League of Women Voters is non-partisan in nature but active in promoting good government.

Sue Sweeney, Cleo Borland, Mary Ellen Campbell and Jean Battani have volunteered their services as observers of the County Transit Commission, the Laguna Salada School District, the Community College Board of Trustees and the San Bruno Park School District Board of Trustees, respectively.

However, more observers are needed for other city councils and school boards.

The league provides many ways in which a member can participate, all on a voluntary basis.

Anyone interested in learning about league procedures and how one can be of greater service to the community may attend this or any other league meeting.

Babysitting is available on the premises.

Revised BART Map Available

A completely revised edition of BART's comprehensive public transit map and information brochure, "BART & Buses," is just off the press and be available this week in all 33 of BART's operating stations.

The full-color publication is free as an aid to Bay Area transit patrons.

First introduced three years ago, "BART & Buses" has now been expanded considerably and serves as a pocket guide for regional and intra-city travelers on both sides of the bay.

The guide actually consists of two separate folding maps, one depicting the BART route and other transit lines serving the East Bay, and the second presenting the same information for the West Bay.

Both sections contain full information about how to use BART, complete with travel times and fare schedule, toll free telephone information numbers and transfer procedures between BART and other transit lines.

The West Bay section of the guide provides large, easy-to-read maps showing the BART line and the stops, routes and schedules for San Francisco Municipal Railway buses, streetcars and cable cars.

In addition, this section of "BART & Buses" contains information on Golden Gate Ferry service and notes Northgate Transit and Pacifica Municipal Transit, both serving BART's Daly City Station from San Mateo County.

As an additional feature, points of interest such as museums, libraries, major post office branches, public recreation areas and colleges also are marked on the maps.

The fare charts contained in the new "BART & Buses" issue reflect BART's recently adopted fare increase, which was necessitated by the district's increasing operating deficit.

The new fare schedule goes into effect on Nov. 3. Amounting to an average increase of approximately 21 per cent, mainly for long distance trips, the new structure also reduces fares for patrons traveling in downtown San Francisco and Oakland, and stretches out the minimum fare rides in the suburban areas.

This is the first fare increase since the system began operation over three years ago.

Tug Moved To S.F. Park

The steam tug "Hercules" was to join the fleet at San Francisco Maritime State Historic Park Tuesday.

Director Herbert Rhodes said the tug, recently acquired by the State Parks Foundation, becomes the fifth historic ship at the park, located on the Hyde Street pier at San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf.

The Hercules was at Merritt Dry Dock in Oakland, where it underwent a $45,000 exterior face lifting and painting, contributed by the Crowley Maritime Corp. Thomas Crowley and Co. purchased the Hercules in 1918, later selling it to "Sunny Jim" Rolph, the colorful, longtime mayor of San Francisco and later governor of California.

The Hercules was built in 1907 by John H. Dialogue and Son of Camden, New Jersey, one of America's most highly respected builders of ocean-going tugboats. The tug operated out of San Francisco Bay and towed ships and cargo to many parts of the world for 55 years.

The Hercules is a big, ocean-going steam tug — a hardworking high-quality and highly expensive kind of watercraft that reached peak development around the turn of the century.

Equipped with a huge 1,000-horsepower triple-expansion steam engine and designed to ride deep in the water so that she could steer and pull steadily even in heavy seas, the Hercules represents the best of the American-built coastal steam tugs and is today one of the last of her kind still afloat in North America.

The Hercules joins four other "last of their kind" ships at the park:

The C. A. Thayer, a wooden-hulled, three masted schooner designed and built to bring lumber from the forests of the northwest to the fast building turn-of-the-century cities of California;

The Wapama, a wooden-hulled steam schooner built in 1915, a ship designed to replace sailing ships like the Thayer;

The ferryboat, "Eureka", a wooden-hulled "walking-beam" ferryboat built in 1890 at Tiburon as a combination railway-car and passenger ferry;

And the Alma, a hard-working scow schooner built in 1891 at Hunters Point and designed to haul bulk cargo to and from all parts of San Francisco Bay and the Delta.

In addition to budgeting funds for the purchase of the Hercules from the Foundation, the department is making plans for the restoration of the interior, a job that is expected to take two years.

The park is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days a week. Admission is 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. The admission fee includes the use of By-Word "wand" which picks up specially recorded interpretive messages at various stations in the park and on the old ships.

Lake Merced Asks Annexation

The Lake Merced Golf and Country Club Board of Directors wants the San Mateo County Planning Commission to approve its annexation to Daly City.

Attorney Harold Dobbs, former San Francisco supervisor and past president of the posh 200-acre country club, said the club's board voted Wednesday to annex to surrounding Daly City.

The club is now in unincorporated Colma and falls under the jurisdiction of the county.

Five private golf clubs in the county have been under study for possible rezoning into Resource Management Zones.

Such zoning would apply strict control over the courses, including even the trimming of shrubs and trees, some golf course managers complain.

Golf course managers say the zoning would be too restrictive, and they have asked the commission to scrap the county planning staff's recommendations.

A representative of the California Golf and Country Club in South San Francisco told how several trees threatening homes bordering the course had to be cut down hurriedly.

With the Resource Management zoning, the clubs would have to route requests for removal of trees through the county, possibly delaying action for weeks, it was explained.

Permits would be required for any and all changes in landscaped features of the club, it was understood.

The county Planning Commission this week shelved action on the Resource Management Zone issue for 60 days.

Meanwhile, Daly City will prepare an environmental impact report on the Lake Merced annexation.

Within 30 to 45 days, the city will make application to the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) on the matter, according to City Manager David Rowe.

The club, which is not in either the Broadmoor police or fire districts, will represent a substantial increase in tax revenues for Daly City, Rowe said.

Rowe also said talks between the club and city have been going on for the past several years.

"If annexation is approved (the city) intends to maintain the club as open space," Rowe pledged.

It is now zoned "Residential Estates," which prohibits the building of structures on less than one acre lots.

Faire Set At Temple

The annual Holiday Faire at Temple United Methodist Church is planned for Nov. 8, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Booths will include plants, bonsai, attic treasures, books, gifts, toys, jams, baked goods, Christmas decorations and a pot-holder tree.

Admission is free and there will be a luncheon snack bar and activities for children.

Temple Methodist Church is at 19th Avenue and Junipero Serra Blvd., and can be reached on the 26, 18 and M lines.

Daly City Council Will Okay Solid Waste Plan

The Daly City Council was expected to approve the concept of a preliminary countywide plan for future disposal of solid waste — garbage — at its regular meeting on Tuesday.

Whether or not this plan, when finalized, will answer the question of what to do with San Mateo County's 2,000 tons of daily garbage is not known at this time, officials acknowledge.

And the issue of how to dispose of the county's hazardous materials is not even included in the preliminary plan, Councilman McRobert Stewart pointed out.

Presently this material is disposed of in Contra Costa, but officials there are becoming increasingly unhappy over their area becoming a dumping ground for this type of refuse, Stewart said.

The State Health Department now monitors the disposal of toxic (hazardous) material, it was explained.

Daly City now disposes of its refuse at the coastside Mussel Rock dumpsite in the southwest corner of the city.

Pacifica has also contracted to dump its refuse there since their community's dumpsite was filled last year.

But some Daly City officials aren't happy that every load of Pacifica garbage dropped at Mussel Rock means that much less space of disposal of their own refuse.

The lifespan of Mussel Rock — if all goes according to optimistic plans — is 15 years, a scavenger company spokesman said.

Two-Team Race In North Loop

By JERRY LITTRELL

It's now down to a two-team race in the North Peninsula League and by this time next week the whole thing should be decided.

That's when Terra Nova, the last team with a chance at getting into a share of first place with South San Francisco, hosts the unbeaten Warriors in what is shaping up to be the hard-hitting semi-finale of the 1975 football season.

Oceana pretty well ended Half Moon Bay's chances of at least a co-championship by upsetting the Cougars 10-7, highlighting Friday's action. The Warriors continued unbeaten with a 26-17 win over cross-town rival El Camino while Terra Nova scored a 9-0 win over Jefferson. Serramonte snapped a two-game losing streak with a 26-7 in over Westmoor.

Oceana 10, H.M.B. 7

Oceana jumped off to a quick 10-0 lead against the Cougars and staved off two last quarter thrusts.

Halfback Bruce Taylor capped the Sharks' second series with a 51-yard touchdown romp. Kicker Mike Haas added a 32-yard field goal to end first half scoring.

Three minutes into the second half Cougar quarterback Scott Campbell found end Doug Bray on a 15-yard TD pass. Half Moon Bay had two more chances, but a last-minute interception ended any comeback hopes.

South S.F. 26 El Camino 17

Fullback Bob Luster continued his record-breaking scoring pace with two more touchdowns and halfback Tali Ena racked up 146 yards in 24 carries as South City got its seventh win of the year.

Luster got the Warriors back from a 3-0 deficit (after Herman Segelke's 26-yard field goal) when he powered over from the one. Luster's 16th touchdown of the year came form the seven yard line midway through the second quarter to up the margin to 13-3.

Camino's outstanding effort came from Jim Nishida, who caught eight of quarterback Alan Kern's 13 completions for 138 yards and two touchdowns.

Terra Nova 9, Jeff 0

A recovered fumble by Dave Matas set up the lone Terra Nova touchdown as the Tigers managed to get by Jefferson in a physical game.

Jeff Bartizal plunged over from the one just before halftime and Dave Waterman added a 20-yard field goal in the last period to keep the Tigers in contention.

Bartizal was the game's leading ground gainer with 78 yards in 16 carries as TN prepared for the first place game against SSF.

Serramonte 26, Westmoor 7

Serramonte overcame its usual amount of turnovers (four per game) and after a slow first period gained momentum.

The Rams came out intent on passing, but the first 11 aerials fell unmolested by the offense while the Regents picked off three to take a 19-0 halftime lead.

Fullback Skip Campbell ran for 124 yards in 19 carries, scoring on two one-yard plunges to pace the Regent offense. Westmoor wasn't able to get its passing game clicking until sophomore Mike McLennan came on late in the game.

SUPER GAME

Aragon High's Duane Yamauchi came up with a hard-to-top effort Friday night in a 12-12 tie with Capuchino. On offense, he latched onto seven passes, tying a Mid-Peninsula League record. On defense, he came up with three interceptions.

A Deadlock for Capuchino

By DON BERTELLOTTI

It was a gridiron mirror, with Aragon High on one side and Capuchino on the other.

Quarterback options: nearly identical.

Fondness for passing: nearly identical.

Score: exactly identical. Twelve apiece.

And for Aragon, which walked off with its third tie of the season and second of the Mid-Peninsula League campaign, the result must have been particularly frustrating.

The Dons are now in the peculiar position of finding themselves unbeaten on the season (3-0-3) but in mild trouble in the MPL (at 1-0-2), with both San Mateo and Burlingame still unbeaten and untied.

Both Cap and Aragon moved the ball well, but 12 turnovers kept the score down.

Sixty-five passes were thrown, twenty-seven completed and seven intercepted.

Three of the steals went to Aragon standout Duane Yamauchi, who had an even better night on offense, catching seven Leo Gradinger aerials to tie an MPL record.

Gradinger threw for 164 yards and rushed for 79 more. Cap's Kris Martinsin was slightly behind with 94 passing and 77 rushing.

After each team had scored twice and missed all extra point attempts, things got interesting.

But neither team could move the ball inside the opponent's 20 yard line. Aragon did get to the Cap 24, but then the Mustangs' Mike Morando recovered a Don fumble.

Aragon was fortunate to have its first TD pass from Gradinger to Wayne Bergland tipped by a defensive back into Bergland's hands.

But things evened out, as another Don receiver dropped a sure TD pass in the end zone.

Cap's Dennis Haskins performed almost as well as Yamauchi at wide receiver, hauling in six aerials for 64 yards.

Cap dropped to 1-1-1 in the MPL, 3-2-1 overall.

Bulldogs Lose 47-0

College of San Mateo's football players must have felt like the proverbial Christians meeting the lions at the Coliseum Friday evening.

Actually, the matchup was CSM against De Anza at Foothill College.

The lions — er — Dons prevailed, 47-0.

De Anza punted only once in the entire game. An indication of the way things were going for CSM — the punt was good for 51 yards.

CSM's Randy Gomez, who entered the game as the state's second leading passer, did not play. Gomez is still recovering from pulled hip muscles sustained in last week's 10-0 loss to West Valley.

Sub quarterbacks John Soloman and Kevin McCoy generated little offense against a solid De Anza eleven. The Bulldogs gained only 123 yards on the evening.

Falcon Flurry Fails

Burlingame High Defense Still Strong

By STEVE JOHNSON

Burlingame High's defense hasn't given up a poont yet in two Mid-Peninsula League football games.

That's been fortunate for the Panthers, who haven't been scoring many points themselves — nine to be exact.

But that meager total has stood up for two wins, the latest a 2-0 triumph Friday over visiting Crestmoor.

Burlingame's season record is 4-1. Crestmoor is 1-2 in the MPL and 4-2 overall.

Crestmoor dominated the game. The Falcons rolled up 333 yards total offense to 105 for the Panthers, ran 75 plays to 48, and had 27 first towns to seven.

Crestmoor moved the ball consistently well, and put together six drives of seven plays or more. One last thrust in the final minutes of the fourth quarter just missed paying off.

With 4:25 left, the Falcons started at their 14. Eleven plays later, keyed by three Larry Navilhon completions for 49 yards, they had a second and goal from Burlingame's nine with 46 seconds left.

With its time-outs used up, Crestmoor elected to try a field goal. Mike McCourt's 26-yard attempt was accurate but just short. It hit the cross bar and bounced back. McCourt's timing seem to have been upset by a delayed spot after a high snap.

The Falcons, who had four turnovers, were thwarted earlier in the halt on a fourth down incompletion into the end zone from the six and linebacker Robin Lau's interception at the 11.

Burlingame's score came midway through the second quarter. Crestmoor had a high punt snap from its 37 roll into the end zone. The Falcons, saved a touchdown by recovering the ball, but the Panthers had a safety.

Burlingame, which also had four turnovers, had two threats halted. Jeff Maxoutopolis intercepted a pass at the two in the first quarter and Crestmoor held on downs at its 19 in the third quarter.

Robert Jarmen, subbing for injured Falcon running standout Mike Mooney, led all rushers with 117 yards on 16 carries. Jamie Ronzoni had 63 on 12. Crestmoor held Burlingame's explosive backfield to 31 total yards in 29 tries.

'Cats Still Tempt Hands of Fate

Considering the number of times San Mateo High's football team has tempted fate lately, the Bearcats' current 17-game winning streak seems all the more amazing.

San Mateo took its second straight Mid-Peninsula League outing Friday, topping host Hillsdale 22-16, but also had to mount its second straight fourth quarter comeback.

Last season, on the way to a Mid-Peninsula League title and a win in the Peninsula Championship game, the Bearcats were often beset and beseiged up until the final minutes. That pattern hasn't changed.

Despite their obvious statistical advantage over Hillsdale Friday, the Bearcats had to scratch till the end — when depth, a settled-down defense and the running of Jeff Clarke shut Hillsdale off.

The Knights scored quickly in the first quarter after a short San Mateo punt. Quarterback Terry Batchelder rambled for 24 yards around left end and Gary Ellison scored standing up from two yards out.

Hillsdale drove 63 yards on its next possession; the key advances were a 14-yard Batchelder-Ron Walton pass, a major penalty against the Bearcats and a 21-yard scamper by Norman Adams. Mike Lewis scored from the two, and after a second Batchelder passing conversion, Hillsdale led 16-0.

Meanwhile, Knight defenders like Larry Metter, Paul Tuohy and Rick Reynolds were meeting the vaunted Bearcat ground attack in force, collapsing San Mateo blocking and shutting down Clarke and Charles Perkins.

The Bearcats finally got a chance with 1:26 left in the first half. A short Hillsdale punt gave them the ball at the Knight 26.

Clarke and Perkins hammered their way to a first and goal at the four, but then Perkins was stopped twice for no gain. With time running out, San Mateo got lucky.

San Mateo is now 2-0 in the MPL and 5-0 overall. Hillsdale is 0-3 and 2-4 (though most losses have been close).

In the Battle of the cellar," the Has Beens put together a team effort to wallop Manor Pub, 36-0.

'Rained Out' Column

Le Pacini

As we write this, Boston is doing its best to make San Francisco weather look good. As you might have guessed, this was to be our World Series column. But now it's become what may be the first sports column in history to be rained out.

In other years, this would have bothered me. But this year, it doesn't, and there is a reason for it which doesn't even border on apathy or unreasonable disinterest. What brought this all about was that just about when the playoffs were beginning, my mother-in-law underwent major surgery, while I almost simultaneously came down with my own personal annual plague. You see, when God made me, he sub-contracted my sinuses out to the Tinker Toy Company. Thus, at least once a year, my sinus cavities get overly hospitable and throw a bash for every infection in the neighborhood.

My mother-in-law's condition and my sinuses followed a parallel course of self-destruction right on through the playoffs and the first five games of the world Series, during which time I discovered a truth which had obviously eluded me for years. The World Series, or anything leading up to them, just aren't that important.

I am even more convinced of it now that my mother-in-law, either through some kind of medical miracle or some especially sincere and unique prayers, or a combination of both, is better than ever, while my sinuses have signed a separate peace treaty with my antibiotic pills.

You might perhaps think that I have never before been sick or had those close to me ill, but that is wrong.

I've put in several stretches in the hospital, and have had more friends and relatives depart than I currently have still with me.

But it never occured to me before now that a strange phenomenon has been taking place most of my life of which I have been ignorant. Unless I am prematurely senile and thus registering an unusual memory loss, I have never been terribly sick, nor have any loved ones been seriously ill during a playoffs, World Series, Super Bowl, Olympic Games or other "major" sports event.

Well folks, that's my World Series column. It ain't much (maybe next week), but I can say this for myself. In the 12 years plus I've been writing this column for the San Mateo Times and subsidiaries, the only times it hasn't appeared in some form, good or bad, long or short, were the three times the editor forgot to publish it.

In the meanwhile, I'll keep hoping that my sinuses will some season be eligible for a Comeback of the Year Award.

RANDOM THOUGHTS . . . Why do big league baseball teams need nine and 10-man pitching staffs? Whenever a pitcher who isn't doing well is asked what his problem is, the says, "I can't keep sharp if I don't work more."

We're beginning to think that managers and coaches are roughly equivalent to school teachers. The parallels one can draw would take a book and are obvious.

What may not be so obvious is the question as to when they should quit.

We believe they all should quit when they start getting too old to know how to handle and or to understand the new generations coming up. That would probably be somewhere between ages 40 and 50.

And what ever happened to pitchers with good control? Now they all have "good location."

And we're so damned tired of hearing experts talk about how players can't miss because they have such "a perfect swing." Perfect swings are good only when a player can hit. Ed Goodson, we were continually told by Giants' brass, has a perfect swing, but he hasn't hit in two years. One of the best swings we've ever seen was owned by former Giant catcher Tom Haller, and he had a lifetime batting average of .257.

Give us the jerky swing of Pete Rose every time.

And what ever happened to the quick kick? Is it gone with the drop kick?

QUICK TRIVIA QUIZ:

(Knowledge of the answers to the following questions may be imperative to Oakland A's fans)

1. Who holds the Seattle Pilots' record for most runs scored in a single season?
2. Who holds the Seattle Pilots' record for most hits and most singles in a season?
3. Who holds the Pilots' record for most doubles?
4. Who holds it for most triples?
5. Who holds Seattle's records for most homers, left and right handed?
6. Who holds the record in Seattle for most homers in a season for a rookie?
7. Who holds the single season records for most total bases, long hits, extra bases on long hits and slugging average?
8. Record for most stolen bases in a season?
9. How about most RBI in a season?
10. Who hit the highest in a single season for Seattle?
11. Who pitched in the most games and had the most saves for Seattle?
12. Who pitched the most innings, started the most games, completed the most games, won the most games and lost the most games? The same pitcher also walked the most batters and struck out the most hitters, allowed the most hits and hit the most batsmen.
13. What pitcher holds the Seattle record for wild pitches?
14. And finally, who had the best Seattle ERA?

We won't keep you in suspense. The answers are:

1. Tommy Harper (88) 2. Harper (126 and 105). 3. Tommy Davis (29) 4. Mike Hegan (6). 5. Don Mincher, lefty (25) and Wayne Comer, righty (15). 6. Steve Hovley and Danny Walton (3). 7. Mincher (194, 39, 89, .454) 8. Harper (73) 9. Davis (80) 10. Davis (.271) 11. Diego Segui (66 and 12) 12. Gene Brabender (202, 29, 7, 13, 14, 103, 139, 194 and 13) 13. Jim Bouton (8) 14. Segui (3.36).

The best thing about all of the above records is that it's easy to remember what year each of them was set. They were all achieved in 1969, the only season big league ball was played in Seattle. Every game since has been rained out.

'White Line' Tour' At Grand National

A special "White Line Tour" through the horse stables and livestock corrals is available to visitors of the 31st annual Grand National Rodeo, Horse Show, and Livestock Exposition at the Cow Palace, now through Nov. 2, General Manager Lex Connelly announced.

The tour, which takes anywhere from 30 minutes to as long as you wish, begins at the front entrance of the Cow Palace, and leads first to the South Horse Stables where the hunter and jumper horses are kept.

The tour continues through the Sheep Pavilion, Livestock Corrals, Auction Pavilion, Beef Pavilions, and North Horse Stables.

In the horse stables are the elegant Arabians, the high-stepping Harness Horses, and the classic Appaloosas, with their black-spotted coats.

"The Grand National is one of the largest rodeos, horse shows, and livestock expositions in the country," said Connelly. "This tour will take you behind the scenes of the show, and let you see how we put it all together."

Award For Ms. Bradshaw

Katherine Ann Bradshaw, recreation supervisor with the Daly City Department of Recreation Parks and Maintenance, has received national recognition from the American Park and Recreation Society.

On Oct. 21 at the Congress for Recreation and Parks in Dallas, Texas, Ms. Bradshaw received the society's 1975 Women's Opportunities Scholarship. This honor is based on a professional committees evaluation of the professional and administrative potential of the applicants.

Ms. Bradshaw is the third woman to receive this honor and the first woman from the West Coast to be chosen.

The scholarship was presented at the Annual American Park and Recreation banquet at the Fairmont Hotel in Dallas, with 2,000 members attending. The award is to be utilized for the additional educational training in the Administrative area.

Ms. Bradshaw has been employed by the City of Daly City since 1967 as recreation supervisor of girls, women and cultural activities. Previous to that, she was employed by Phillips Petroleum Co. in its recreation program in Bartlesville, Okla. She is a graduate of Pittsburgh State College, Pittsburg, Kansas, and holds a master's degree from San Francisco State College.

Ms. Bradshaw is active in the California Park and Recreation Society and is treasurer of District IV. She is also a member of Chi Kappa Rho, a women's professional recreation organization.

Charles E. Vincent, director of Recreation, Parks and Maintenance for the City of Daly City, expressed his pleasure at Ms. Bradshaw's national recognition.

"It is a real honor for a Daly City employee to be chosen as the first woman from the west coast to receive this scholarship.

Anderson's Victorious

Anderson Liquors handed Sun Valley Dairy, winner of the round robin, its second defeat and thus capturing the "A" league softball championship in Pacifica.

Anderson's Nick Cavala and Dennis Coan each banged out two hits in four at bats to lead their teammates offensively.

The seventh inning proved to be the only real threat to Anderson Liquors, as Sun Valley Dairy loaded up the bases with only one out, trailing in the game by three runs. However, a double play ended the rally and the game at 9-6.

Skyline

The Skyline College cross-country team, getting a stellar performance from Bob Miller, ran its Coast Conference record to a perfect 3-0 with an 18-45 victory over Ohlone Friday.

Miller took top individual honors with a 21.34 clocking over the 4.2-mile Crystal Springs cross-country course

Council Rejects SP Plan

The San Bruno City Council balked Monday night at a suggestion by the city staff that it be allowed to apply for funds to move the Southern Pacific Railroad station in hopes of increasing ridership.

Although it did not reject the idea that ridership on the commute trains might increase if the station was relocated, the council asked that the matter be studied in greater detail before an application for funds was filed and a relocation site was chosen.

The SP Station currently is located on Huntington Avenue near Sylvan.

Asst. City Manager Jack Mulqueeney told the council the Metropolitan Transportation Commission has asked Peninsula cities to study ways in which to help SP increase ridership.

Mulqueeney explained that since SP has refused to allocate funds to help itself entice more commuters to use the trains, the MTC has indicated it will pay for some improvement projects.

He said the cities were asked to determine what projects would upgrade access to the SP stations.

Mulqueeney said that during discussions with SP and MTC officials improvement suggestions included: providing bicycle racks and better signing around the SP station; creating more parking spaces at the station; building a bus shelter; disseminating bus and train schedule information more widely; providing ticket sales at the SP station and/or at the Tanforan Park Shopping Center; and moving the station to a more convenient location.

Mulqueeney said he believed moving the station north on Huntington Avenue to almost directly under Route 380 would be the best way to increase ridership.

He argued that the public would be more aware of that location because of its proximity to Tanforan and that more parking spaces are available under the overpass than at the station's current location.

The new location, Mulqueeney stressed, also would allow traffic on San Bruno Avenue to continue across the railroad tracks even if a commuter train was in the station.

He said it could be arranged with SP that once the train cleared the intersection by a least 20 feet, the train crossing guards could be raised.

As it now operates, whenever a train pulls into its present station, the San Bruno Avenue crossing guards lower and thus halt traffic in both directions.

Councilman Margaret Kozkowski expressed some concern that the new station may be too close to the proposed Hermosa Park and to the city's new community center at the North Brae School site.

But City Manager Gerald Minford reminded Mrs. Kozkowski that the park and center were on the east side of the tracks, and the station would be located on the west side.

DiSalvo Opens Terminal

Di Salvo, the PSA of California trucking, is moving this weekend into its huge new South San Francisco terminal.

While Pacific Southwest Airlines' grinning birds are winging their way on dozens of daily flights along the San Francisco-Los Angeles shuttle, their land-bound counterparts are flying the Di Salvo banner of red and yellow along Interstate 5.

And just as PSA is far from the largest, most powerful airline in the nation, Di Salvo Trucking Co. is far from being the biggest in its field.

But Di Salvo is moving along at the legal limit, passing the competition at a rate which has made it the No. 1 intrastate trucking company in California in the short period since its acquisition in 1963.

Now it's again going to enlarge upon that position by establishing a terminal in South San Francisco at 335 Oyster Point Blvd.

A company spokesman said Di Salvo personnel hope by Monday to be well established in their new location, within the Cabot, Cabot and Forbes Industrial Park near the Bayshore Freeway.

They'll be leaving behind the San Francisco terminal at 800 Phelps St., but the 30 to 35 working in the general offices at 660 Mariposa St., San Francisco, will continue working there.

The new building will be known as the Russel L. Warrick Building, after one of the four principals in the closed corporation. Warrick, 74, is executive vice president and general counsel at Di Salvo.

The South San Francisco facility, second in size only to the massive 24-hour operation in Los Angeles, is one of 12 Di Salvo terminals in a network handling some 3,000 shipments daily. Of the company's 675 employes, 175 will be employed at the local terminal.

The new operation uses two buildings, an office-terminal with 5,000 square feet of office space and 15,000 square feet of freight dock, and a shop building with 10,000 square feet.

That freight dock, incidentally, has 52 loading doors and is designed to handle two million pounds of freight per day. The shop has a revolving overhead crane and a truck painting and spray booth and cleaning rack.

These details were made known this week by Charles Wallen Jr., 55, vice president for sales. Along with Robert Lawlor, 41, vice president for operations, and his brother, Charles, Wallen and Warrick are the only directors.

The directors are particularly proud of the fact they have put Di Salvo on top without a single acquisition.

"The company owns and operates over 950 pieces of equipment," Wallen pointed out. "Its gross revenue in 1974 was $16.8 million and its 1975 revenue is expected to exceed $17 million.

"In 1961 the company's revenue was $1.5 million and the growth in the past 14 years has been through its sales efforts, no acquisitions being involved. It will be the largest trucking facility in San Mateo County, and we are anticipating future growth while yet being a good neighbor in this community."

Part of the seven-acre county site will be open to the public as the company has met City of South San Francisco requirements in dedicating 1½ acres to the Regional Shoreline Park, which will be completely landscaped and made a part of a park system envisioned to some day stretch all along the shoreline of South San Francisco.

Today, there's no Di Salvo in the trucking company founded in 1949 by Russel Di Salvo and incorporated as such in 1956. Upon his death in 1963, Di Salvo's estate sold their interest in the company.

But the man behind the wheel has been driving truck since he was 17. Charles Lawlor knows not only the trucking business, it's been noted, he knows truckers.

He is first vice president of the California Trucking Association, headquartered in Burlingame, and is one of only six key figures designated to finally negotiate the March, 1976, Master Freight Agreement between the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and the Trucking Employers, Inc.

Until then — and long after — Di Salvo trucks out of South San Francisco will be providing the vital link between the centers of commerce in the nation's most populous state.

And they'll be stopping, too, in Alvarado, Atwater, Azusa, Belmont, Benicia, Ceres, Chula Vista, Delhi, Duarte, Exeter, Fort Ord, Galt, Hanford, Kings Park, Lindsay, Lyoth, Milpitas, Nichols, Nimbus, Oil Dale, Orosi, Pacoima, Port Chicago, Reedley, Selma, Soledad, Sunset Whitney, Taft, Tipton, Vernon, Xanadu and all those other hot spots.

Bruno Complains About Citations

The San Bruno City Council authorized its city attorney Monday night to file a complaint against the County of San Mateo claiming the county is withholding from the city fines it collects when a Peninsula Humane Society officer issues a citation.

According to City Atty. Joseph Galligan, the complaint, when filed, will state that whenever a citation is issued to a San Bruno resident by a Peninsula Humane Society officer, the county keeps the money when the fine is collected.

Galligan told the council he believes the city and not the county should receive payment of fines whenever an owner's dog violates a San Bruno city ordinance.

The city attorney said he had been told by the district attorney's office that since the county contracts with the Humane Society for its services, then the Humane Society officers become county employes, and the county is thus entitled to keep payment of fines.

Galligan maintains the county has no authority over the Humane Society since the organization is nonprofit.

Galligan said he has challenged the county's position in writing to the district attorney's office and is awaiting a formal response.

He told the council if it is not agreed that the city in which the infraction took place should receive payment of fines, then he will file the complaint.

In fact, Galligan said he may file a class action suit on the part of all cities in the county.

Although he could not give an exact figure, Galligan said San Bruno alone is losing "a couple of thousand dollars a year," in fines issued for dog violations.

Galligan said he also may ask the court to rule that the county must pay back to the cities all money it has collected from fines issued by the Humane Society since it began contracting with the organization.

Council Ups Pay For Councilmen

Four San Bruno city council members voted themselves a 5 per cent salary raise Monday night.

Only Councilman Richard Griffith voted against the raise. He also told the council that if it authorized the raise, he would not accept it.

Beginning Jan. 1, 1976, Council members Tony Governale, Margaret Kozkowski, Gary Mondfrans and Mayor John Barnard will be paid $275 a month.

"I don't want people to think I'm unreasonable or pulling a grandstand play, but I think people should understand this is not a full-time job and thus is not subject to inflationary pressure," Griffith said.

"There are, I'm sure, many taxpayers that have full time jobs and don't make as much as we do on the council. I think we should set an example and refuse to take the raise," he added.

Mayor Barnard quickly replied, "For those of you who don't think we earn our money, you should follow us around some time."

"There's not a councilman here that has to backup to take his paycheck," the mayor added. "To take this raise doesn't bother me in the least."

Mondfrans told the council he would vote for the raise, especially since he had just resigned from his position as an assistant law librarian. He said he quit his job to didicate more of his time to the city.

Cities to Review Aid Agreements

The cities of San Bruno and South San Francisco will review their mutual aid agreements in hopes of ironing out differences which have surfaced in the last two weeks.

San Bruno City Manager Gerald Minford told the City Council Monday night he and Fire Chief Herb Freitas had met with South San Francisco City Manager Ed Alario and Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner to discuss the mutual aid pact, an exchange of police and fire units and personnel between cities in times of emergency.

Minford said the officials agreed to develop mutual aid procedures that will improve efficiency and be economically beneficial to both cites.

He said he will recommend to the council changes in the mutual aid agreement at a later date.

Last week San Bruno Mayor John Barnard instructed Minford to investigate the number of times San Bruno goes out on mutual aid calls versus the number of times it receives mutual aid.

Barnard previously had said he believes there may be a difference in the cost to his city and maintained that if that is the case San Bruno should be compensated.

Cable TV Rapped Again in Pacifica

Pacifica council members and residents alike Monday night criticized what they considered inattention, inconsideration and poor reception, by Telecommunications, Inc., operators of that city's cable television system.

Councilman Aubrey Lumley even invited TCI General Manager Ronald Tighe to his home after the council meeting so Tighe could see for himself how bad reception was on Lumley's television set. Tighe accepted the invitation.

Mayor Stan Farber received council approval to make a telephone call this morning to Cable company management in Denver in anticipation of getting results to the complaints.

Councilwoman Janice Fulford, who had asked that reception be monitored, said when residents call her to complain about no reception she tells them to keep a log and pro-rate the bill for service so as not to pay for the time they didn't receive service.

Her comment prompted City Manager Don Weidner to caution that the council be careful what they recommend because "there might be implications for the city's credit rating. We could have all sorts of problems," he said.

Mayor Farber said he had knowledge of instances where persons had documented the hours of outage and took the matter to small claims court and won their case.

Councilwoman Grace McCarthy said her concern was that the city was "paying for something we're not getting while money is being held (in escrow) for future payment" to TCI.

She was referring to an agreement the city has with TCI in which that firm is rebuilding the system in exchange for a phased rate increase.

This increase, already being paid by residents, is put into an escrow account and will be turned over to TCI after successful completion and acceptance of the new system by the city.

Fugitives Arrested

Two fugitives from Tennessee were arrested in San Bruno Monday after a two-week investigation by South San Francisco Police.

The pair had walked away from a traffic accident in South San Francisco on Oct. 17 in which their car was involved.

Police at that time identified the car they were driving as one rented on June 13 in Tennessee and used in an escape that same day from the Tennessee State Prison for men.

The couple was arrested at The Place Apartments, 1125 Cherry Ave., in San Bruno, at 11:30 p.m. by San Bruno and South San Francisco Police officers.

They apparently had been living there, police said.

Arrested were Norman Parker III, 21, and Sharon Vargo, 27, both from Tennessee.

Police said Norman was serving a life sentence for first degree murder and Miss Vargo had just been paroled after serving two years for forgery.
